Kelleys Give Deed To Lathrup

LATHRUP—Subdivider Charles: D. Kelley placed a quit claim deed in the hands of the Lathrup council Monday evening that Mayor Richard N. Cogger termed "apparently" acceptable.

Mrs. Kelley, the former Louise Lathrup, are willing to sign the deed as it now stands if the council approves.

Because those open of the deed was given to open of the council approves. The council approves the control of the council approves. The council early had not had time to study the corrected form, Corger asked that the entire seven-page document be read at the council meeting.

CITY ATTORNEY Everett Hayes told the council that the new deed was a tremendous im-provement and except for some minor changes it appeared satis-

provement and except to some content of the content

PREVIOUS versions of the quit claim deed have contained provi-sions the city could not accept. Lathrup has sought to establish ownership of the sewers before proceeding with court - ordered steps to halt pollution of the Rouge.

Annual Meets Wax Hot and Cold

It wasn't just the furnace that caused Southfield Township Supervisor Hugh G. Allerton, Jr., to wipe his brow Saturday at the township's annual meeting. But over at Bloomfield township hall, Mrs. Robert A. Reid (right) coolly knitted and puried through that township's annual meeting. She was one of only 13 Bloomfield residents attending, who took about ten minutes to approve the township's $243,650 annual budget. State law requires the citizenry's approval of township budgets at annual meets.

Mrs. Reid, of 344 Tilbury, is the wife of a township trustee. Meanwhile, back at Southfield township's meeting at Detroit Country Day school, 70 residents asked a lot of questions. For almost two hours they discussed such matters as the township supervisor's salary, and the spending 6 $67,735 next year by a township made up of three incorporated villages. After the budget was passed intact, Allerton southed his simmering brow.
