

They Shout Down 5 of 6 Opponents

The Seabolt debaters had another successful week last week. However, the affirmative team won five out of six debates. Seabolt wasn't as lucky, I guess. On Tuesday, Dec. 1, they met at Cass Tech, and successfully con-

However, on Wednesday, the next day, the teams from Seabolt successfully contended with all of the teams from Hazel Park high school. On Wednesday we had all four of our teams in use, while on Tuesday, when we met Cass Tech, we used only two teams.

Holy Name

It's Beginning To Look a Lot Like Work

By JUDY GOODE

The annual Christmas play at Holy Name is getting under way now. Parts have been assigned and the inevitable intense practices have really started.

This year the eighth-grade students intend to make this play something worth remembering. Only the best have obtained parts, but for the extra girls there are many parts in the verse choir still open.

We all hope the play will live up to our expectations and that the actors will prove as good as we hope they are.

Everyone at Holy Name is beginning to live and breathe basketball. Both girls' and boys' teams are shaping up into what we hope will be a good season.

THE GIRLS' team played its first scrimmage with Gesu last Tuesday. The team looks pretty good, although last year through graduation what Holy Name lost was perhaps the best team we'll see in many a year.

The boys have not yet played but from the looks of practice they are doing well. All in all we are waiting for our hopes to become reality.

Norwegian miles are seven times as long as the American mile.

COSTUMES WILL all be made individually and some parents have volunteered to work on scenery along with a couple of talented students.

CHRISTMAS STOCKINGS for dogs as well as the cat and the canary. (Quaint)

BASKET made in Italy by Dueponte—of handsome dark material with rope and leather handle. Also a BUCKET of wood with brass handles and lined for use as a planter.

ROOSTER and HEN made of tin in Mexico and brilliantly colored for decorative effect of the room, not the rooster! Same outfit provides unusual star lamps of tin and glass, colored and plain. Delightful on patio, hall or museum.

PAPIERMACHE angels but none-the-less real, from Italy. $7.50 a wing; $15.00 an angel. The subtle colors and exquisite grace when hanging speak well for the courage of these angels.

LOG CRIB in an inconspicuous vertical ring of iron to be filled with logs and stored outside on the porch. An offspring of this unique space saver is a small one (naturally) for the hearth.

PARTRIDGE IN A PEAR TREE symbolizes an old poem. The pheasants in our trees have been changed to "partridges" and look well in the golden branches hung with glittering pears. A treat for years.

WROUGHT IRON Christmas trees are a step ahead of the aluminum jobs which are glutting the homes of steel barons and others. These trees are drastically simple yet strong enough to hold 10 or 12 red candles. No danger of fire.

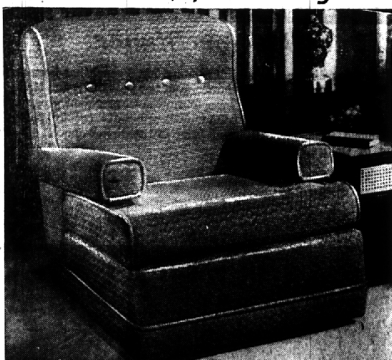

WALL BRACKET in antique green wrought iron is decorated with bright red cherries or something and there are holes in it for two red candles (red is desirable but not mandatory).

PICK-UP TABLE containing many items under ten dollars, under five, and even less than 2 or 1 dollar. Some of these are really exquisite handcrafted materials from abroad and others are every day things such as flower frogs, gloves, graining shears etc., which are always in great demand and greatly appreciated.
