Take a Look - Beauty's All Over the Place

"Kaleidoscope" a magazine, "designed to represent the beauty around us," was published by the students at Southfield high school last week.

The trim little book with cover design by Robert Alexander was edited by Rhoda Cortney and Darwin Murr. It contains poetry, prose and essays on a college level, or better.

STUDENTS in a creative writing class contributed selections from a class assignment comparing the various phases of the English language and grammar with vital organs of the human body.

According to James Johnson, the paragraphs are bound into various forms, such as the novel. The novel, says James, is the thyroid gland. The thyroid affects the growth of the body in the same manner as a good novel can affect the growth of a nation.

Carolyn Fisher wrote, "Both the kidney and pancreas come in pairs. They are similarly shaped, one crescent moon facing east and the other facing west."

He Made His Money At Cards

By DON CUMMINGS

Each year just before the Christmas season, Cranbrook's Art department sponsors a Christmas card contest in which all students are eligible to enter.

This year, senior Boris Nicoloff has been chosen winner of the contest. The card portrayed the alumni court on a snowy day, and was chosen by Headmaster Hoey from a number of very artistic entries.

NICOLOFF'S achievement will represent the official school card this year and will be used solely by Mr. Hoey until next year when it will be available to students.

For his outstanding work, Nicoloff will receive a prize of five dollars.

Cranbrook's winter sports teams are practicing with great spirit in anticipation of raising the school's standing in the Interstate Preparatory league.

SOME FORTUNATE Cranbrook students are looking forward to the Kingswood Sophomore dance Saturday evening, Dec. 12. This affair precedes by four days the beginning of Christmas vacation for both schools which suggests romance, relaxation, and possible study in anticipation of January College Board exams.

The lengthy vacation will extend through Tuesday, Jan. 5 and classes will resume on Wednesday Jan. 6.

Propose Cafe Continental Type For Birmingham

A coffee house continental has been proposed for Birmingham by Pierre LaMarre, owner of Cinema 14 in Clawson.

LaMarre told The Birmingham

two or three times weekly, LaMarre said.

HOWEVER, the proposed coffee house, to be located at Brown and Ann streets, hit a snag last week when LaMarre's attorney asked Birmingham city commissioners to amend the city moving picture ordinance to exclude private clubs from obtaining a motion picture license.

Uncertain whether the new establishment was essentially a movie house or a coffee house, the commission denied the request pending further clarification.
