SOCIETY

Penny Nelson Honored

Mrs. George Carlson of Birmingham and Mrs. William J. Riley, formerly of Birmingham and now of Detroit, were collaborating hostesses at a pre-nuptial party Saturday to honor bride-elect Penny Nelson, daughter of the C. A. Nelsons of Brookdale road, Bloomfield township. The Detroit athletic club's beautiful Georgian Room was the locale of the fete, a luncheon and shower with 40 guests present. Besides the topic of the coming wedding, conversation also revolved around Mr. and Mrs. Riley's European trip from which they had returned only last Wednesday... just in time for the hostesses to complete party details.

INITIAL arrangements had been made at the DAC before the Rileys' mid-September departure. Incidentally, they visited 11 countries, returning on the Queen Elizabeth and drive home from New York in the little Opel car they'd bought in Germany.

Penny Nelson, the feted bride-to-be, will be married Dec. 26 in Redeemer Lutheran church, Birmingham, to Peter John TerMaat, son of Mrs. D. H. Bingham of Indianapolis and John TerMaat of Chicago.

Nedra Page, who is to be Penny's bridesmaid, will hostess a luncheon and kitchen shower Saturday at Devon Gables and Nancy Walsler, the honor maid, will give the spinster luncheon Dec. 19. The rehearsal dinner is slated for Christmas afternoon at Devon Gables.

THE BRIDEGROOM will arrive Dec. 20 from Portland, Ore., where he is in newspaper work. Penny was radio-television editor of the Indianapolis Star, a position she resigned when the pair set their wedding date.

Birminghamites to Follow 'Holly Trail' Wednesday

To follow the "Holly Trail", a tour of area homes already decorated for Christmas, the public is invited to start at any of the listed homes and proceed in whatever order is convenient.

The tour is Wednesday from 2 to 5. It is sponsored by the Women's Alliance of the Birmingham Unitarian church. An artist's approach to Christmas, with an exhibition of her paintings, may be viewed at the studio-home of Mildred Williams, 365 Baldwin Court, Baldwin Court, a short street which runs north from Harmon, between Baldwin and Greenwood.

MISS WILLIAMS, well known for her portraits, has had studios in New York and Paris and has exhibited in all the large national exhibitions. She is represented in the permanent collection at the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and in many other public and private collections.

Miss Williams teaches portrait classes at the Bloomfield art association and also gives private lessons in her own studio. She also finds time to make her own wreaths for Christmas.

TRADITIONAL and cherished decorations interpreted in a modern manner will be displayed in the attractive contemporary home of the Richard P. Barnards of 26580 Wellington road, Tramed, a Wellington road is in the center of Franklin and the Barnard home is west on Wellington at the corner of Carol, with the entrance on Carol.

Around the corner to the southwest from the Barnards is the home of the Charles and Patricia of 28825 Irving. Irving is one block south of Carol and the Petersons are just three houses from the corner of Wellington and Irving.

MRS. PETERSON (Margaret Williamson) is the author and illustrator of a series of science-education books for young children. How this talented young mother decorates her home for a delightful part of the tour.

Then, at any time from 2 to 5.
