Cupcake Calamity Doesn't Spoil Party

LATHRUP—Four of her fifth grade students planned a birthday party for their teacher Nancy Parker last week at Northbrook school. The party was planned for Tuesday and the girls worked most of Monday afternoon baking cupcakes and trimming them with letters to spell out "Happy Birthday."

But the weather and a major calamity upset all their first efforts. School was closed on Tuesday, the day set for the party, and when the paper covering the cupcakes was lifted, all the girl's artwork stuck to the paper.

Another batch of cupcakes was whipped up and decorated and the party was held a day late.

Hostesses and planners were Arlene Yagouhan, Michele Wilson, Julie Adams and Margo Stults. The girls furnished punch to go with the cupcakes and Mrs. Parker received a pink and white corsage from the class.

Four exchange teachers were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fairbairn Smith of Samsel last Friday evening.

Following dinner Mr. and Mrs. Hywell Lewis of Wales accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Smith to the Arthur Rabenstein concert at Masonic auditorium.

No one knows when it happened, but during a storm in the last four years, Lathrup school must have been hit by lightning.

Workers repairing a crack in the school chimney found that the lightning conductor and cable on the school roof had been badly mangled at some time. They believe that is what damaged the school's tall chimney.

School board officials are awaiting approval of the insurance company to repair the conductor and cable before scaffolding is removed from the school.
