

Student Movie To Be Shown At Birmingham

By ANN BUCHANAN
Special Writer

Last spring an ambitious Birmingham high school sociology class undertook the project of making a movie. Recently re-taped, the film will be shown again this week.

Under the direction of Donald Grobe, sociology class instructor, the technical educational film took 50 hours to film. The finished product was a half hour long.

Involving high school students, the film featured several couples at a graduation party at which they expressed their views on drinking. The film followed the boys into future life, showing the positions they attained.

SCENES WERE filmed at a student's home, in the high school little apartment, Cranbrook school and on the grounds of Birmingham country club.

Shown for two days at ten cents a person the class collected $100, more than enough to pay the $75 cost of making the movie. The profit was used to support a Chinese boy of the class adopted.

THE BIRMINGHAM police department and a local service station cooperated in creating an automobile accident scene.

The movie was an outgrowth of a class discussion concerning the evil effects of drinking.

IT WAS filmed by teachers Sherman Tarent and John Kish, and narrated by students.

Acting in the movie were Bruce MacDonald, Bob Benson, John Speicher, Dan Schrock, Mike Day, Pete Collins, Barb Bond, Chris Carlson, Barb Shank, Tamara Badenoch, Gay Graser and Sue Riddell.

Barons Lose First Game of Year

Well, now that the holidays are over and a new year is once again upon us, it seems that most students have settled back into their familiar routine of up-at-seven, in-school-by-eight, with no permanent wounds, so everything is back to normal.

In their first game of the new year, our Barons did not fare so well, being beaten by Claremoreville, 19-35. Although the JV's easily won their game—let's just hope that last Friday's game was not an indication of the course of future games, and better luck next time!!

By the way, how did you spend your holiday—especially New Year's eve? I've had a party, and evidently, it was a very unusual evening. Louise Liu had a party—she had a little more than she expected like all night. No one could get out of her driveway when she got home, so they curled up on the floor and real way to greet the New Year, the one about the man who had skidded off a side road in Foxcroft and wedged himself perfectly between two trees—lengthwise. Anyway it was a great way to welcome '59 . . .

The Ski Club took another trip to Granplan last Thursday—and from all reports the new snow was wonderful for skiing. The Broken Ski award goes to Ken Aller this time for his outstanding record on the advanced slope—on three consecutive occasions he completed his magnificent runs on his frost-bitten posterior! Congratulations to Ken, and also to our sponsor, Mr. Gregory—who incidentally, would appreciate it if anyone coming within his ear-shot would not mention the word "ski" or any related words—he will not be responsible for his reaction . . .

Last Monday, Phi Sigma Tau held its formal initiation for new girls in its six chapters. Hester Black, the president of Omega chapter, conducted the meeting, and the opening prayer was given by Laurene Kortkamp. The chapter presidents then initiated their new members, after which, Barb Van Dyk closed the meeting with a traditional prayer. Refreshments were furnished by the Delta Chapter and thanks go out for the good food.

Looking around—over the holidays, parties were held by Gary Piceu, Ken Aller, Louise Liu, Tally Davis, and Phillenore Drummond.

Maple Delegates Attend Conference

Birmingham high school sent a delegation of twenty members of the House of Representatives of student congress to the Eastern Michigan league conference that was held last week at Ferndale high school. After a welcoming ceremony held in the auditorium, the delegates broke up into seminars on various current problems including atomic energy, segregation, and moral problems. An excellent lunch was enjoyed by all, and each school provided some entertainment. After the close of the conference, delegates were able to take a tour of the new Ferndale high school.

Retailing students have been working at Christmas jobs throughout the past weeks. The retailing course at the high school provides students a chance to actually practice what they are taught in school, and they are able to make money at the same time.

The Christmas assembly featured the BHS band and choir, and a special play, the "Belle of Christmas." The Christmas baskets prepared by the homerooms were presented to the Salvation Army representatives by congress chairman Elaine McNab. An appeal was also made to find toys for the many families unable to provide a good Christmas for their children. The band closed the assembly by playing a medley of Christmas carols.

New officers of the Spanish club are Colin Grantwaters, president; John Levy, vice president; Sue Leazy, secretary, and Howard Walker, treasurer. At the last meeting of the club, the members went caroling to Spanish-speaking homes in the community. After this, members returned to the high school to break the pinata, an annual Spanish Christmas custom.

Spanish and French classes at the high school were practicing carols in their respective tongues throughout the weeks preceding Christmas. The French classes performed at a concert, and Spanish classes sang in the school lobby during lunch hours.

A special Christmas present was given by senior home room teacher, Miss Allen, to all the members of her homeroom. Each student received a deck of cards, individually monogrammed with the initials in gold. The home room in turn gave Miss Allen a book containing the senior pictures and signatures of each member of the home room.

The Birmingham high school debate team won one affirmative decision at Lansing Eastern high school last Friday. The winning team was made up of Clark Hudson and Steve Taylor. The Birmingham negative team of Jane
