JOHN MASON BROWN

Dramatic Critic Speaks to Club

John Mason Brown, lecturer, author and dramatic critic will speak to the members of the Village Woman's club on Wednesday at the Oakland Hills Country club. Mr. Brown's busy schedule includes, in addition to some 75 lecture appearances a year, the writing of "Seeing Things," which is also the title of his lecture on that day.

His many years as dramatic critic on Theatre Arts Magazine, The New York Post, and the New York World Telegram, proved the critic who leans toward the academic can still be a keen judge on the commercial possibilities of the play under review.
