'Ships That Pass In Night' Often Carry Relatives

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Seaman David A. McKay, USN, has sailed "around the horn," past the door of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McKay, 679 Frank, Birmingham. The parents managed only a glimpse of the ship—in the dark—as it steamed silently past Port Huron, Mich., one night, on its way to Lake Michigan.

THE MACON is part of the armada that makes up the U. S. Navy's "Operation Inland Sea," which is cruising the great lakes to commemorate the St. Lawrence seaway opening. McKay is due to be released from the navy in November.

Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills Society Notes

from Nancy Porter

MI 4-2880

It is always a pleasure to hear about a group of people who have remained friends for many years. Such a group of prominent Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills couples are looking forward to their next get-together—a house party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. James, who own a cabin in the woods at Grayling, Mich., just a stone's throw from the Gaylord Sportsman's Club.

Leaving Thursday, July 23, for the house party will be the Lyman Craig, the F. Harold Motts, the Harry Kleins, the William L. Grubbs, the Carl Brad, the E. L. Lounds, the Fred G. Woods, the James F. Baldwin, the W. Thurgood Raymonds, the John W. Knechts, and the T. F. W. Meyers.

Thursday evening they will enjoy cocktails and dinner at the Lyman Craig as guests of the Jameses; Friday evening they will have dinner on the Au Sable; and Saturday evening, at Hidden Valley. Day-time activities will include playing the bridge, pitching horseshoes, and swimming at Lake Margrothe. Former Bloomfield Hills residents Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Peters, of Summit, N. J., are expected to visit the Lounds next week and then will join the house party.

The Baldwins entertained this year's group of people at their Orchard Lake home where a good view was obtained of the Orchard Lake Country club crew and the Detroit Boat club crew sailing against each other.

The Baldwins are vacationing at the Harbor Beach cottage of the Norman Andersons, who are presently on their boat on Georgian Bay.

The Andersons' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Lerchen, plan to occupy the Anderson cottage in August.

Another group of friends who meet often to play bridge had their last session recently at the Glenhurst drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Lyons, before adjourning for the summer. The Lyonses with three of their children enjoyed a long weekend at Dunn Farm, on Glen Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Scriven, of Birmingham road, and Mr. and Mrs. Otis C. Thompson, of Kenonway, members of the bridge club, just returned Monday evening from a vacation at Beaver Dam.

The fourth couple of the bridge club, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony M. Menkel, Jr., of Brookwood court, go back and forth to their cottage which is on an acre island owned solely by them. It is one of a group called the Thousand Islands in Chippewa Bay and can be reached only from Chippewa, N. Y., where the Menkels keep a boat. Since they purchased the island from Mr. Menkel's sister about four years ago, they and their friends have tried to dream up an appropriate name for their cottage. The best fitting so far, they say, is "In the Rocks."

Also back from the East are Mr. and Mrs. James N. Hastings and daughter Beverly, safe in their Raynole road home after the harrowing experience of being caught in a storm in Chesapeake Bay.

The had chartered a 35-foot boat for the week and had pleasant cruising and overnight stays at the Great Oak Yacht club in Chestertown, Md., the Northeast River Yacht club, and Swan Creek, both in Maryland.

After spending a day at Annapolis in 100 degree temperature and 100% humidity, they started out in their boat when a sudden, dreadful storm arose. Their anchor would not hold. So they turned back to seek a fishing cove they had recently passed.

Mrs. Hastings is justly proud of her husband's boating ability, as he navigated in the dark, thru 25 women who attended enjoyed Mrs. Correll's specialty—freshly baked bread (all the more admirable considering that she is the mother of six boys) and sandwiches, topped off by a special dessert of Mrs. Crockett's own concocting, which the guests have requested again for next year—orange sherbet with plump fresh blueberries with maple syrup and served in tall glasses.

The Max Fruhauf of Brookside, Bloomfield Hills, who entertain at their home whenever possible, have planned a lawn party for 50 people on Saturday, July 18, from 3:30 to 9:00 p.m. A punch bowl will be followed by buffet supper. The garden color scheme is pink, white blue and white predominating.

A reception will be held for Marilyn Nan Sims of Grand Haven, the fiancée of the Fruhaufs' son, William Harold Redfield, who is coming from Waukegan, Ill., for the party.

The bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bryan Sims, will be in the reception line. Among the guests are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Redfield, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas

Redfield, Barbara Morse, and from Ann Arbor Mrs. Joseph Hayden. After their wedding August 1, the couple will fly to Europe for their honeymoon, and will then live in Lake Forest, Ill.

Anthony Fruhauf, who has been vacationing in New York and in Ottawa, Canada, is home this week. The following week, Ennis Fruhauf will visit his aunt and uncle, the Robert Lorimers, in Port Byron, Ill.

Mrs. Gilbert-Richards, who with her husband and four children is moving from New York, Calif. to Bloomfield Hills next week, is indeed fortunate to have met some of her future neighbors. Last Thursday Mrs. Dorothy Wright, who had met Mrs. Richards in California three years ago, entertained for her at a luncheon in her North Glenhurst drive home.

Guests were Mrs. William T. Gossett, Mrs. A. S. McEvoy, Mrs. Paul J. Shine, Mrs. Thomas King, Mrs. David B. Burton, Mrs. George C. Booth, Mrs. Carl Whitl and Mrs. Frank Orth.

The previous week Mrs. Orth of Sheffield road entertained for Mrs. Richards at a "California" lunch club. (Most of the guests were people who had lived at one time or another in California.)

Incidentally, the Orths' daughter, Susie, is now in California, at Pebble Beach, for the wedding of her cousin, Lynn Goldamer. She will travel to Los Angeles, then to Phoenix, Ariz., visiting relatives, before returning to Birmingham.

Others are finding the summer days a handy time to move. Friends of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Bell, formerly of Southlawn road, received a postcard complete with map showing their new location and a verse, utilizing a pun on their name.

"If you're ready, fit and able, Drive on out to Devon Gables, Two Miles West, or so, will bring You to the place where BELLS now ring!"

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Bookmyer (the former Christine Runyon) moved into their home on Pierce street this week, after honeymooning in Bermuda.
