PLASTIC BAGS can be DEADLY PLAYTHINGS

Several weeks ago in this column was outlined the plight of internationally known Birmingham artist, Robert Herzberg, whose painting of a French café was borrowed from a Berkeley puppet club, where the painting had been on display. Herzberg called this the painting was back in his possession Monday night the artist was called by an unidentified man, who said to look near the club's back door. That was the picture admitted the artist. Herzberg said the guy who took the picture admitted he was looking at Herzberg's display. Probably took him back without getting arrested, Herzberg speculates.

Something Wrong With 30 Meters?

Within the next week, Birmingham parks crews will start the second parking committee will take a check at determining why 30 two-hour meters are used, only occasionally.

On the committee, besides Mayor Harry Deryn, are Commissioner William Roberts, Police Chief Ralph Moxley, and businessmen Donald Cummings and Fred Poppe. Commissioners Monday night charge only direct costs against the municipal auto parking system revenues.

These NET revenues, according to Finance Director James Parkins, amount to about $32,000 annually. The parking system has about $18,000 available for system improvements, he said.

This money is being considered for investment in a city off-street parking system for the northwest quadrant of the downtown business section.

City Manager L. R. Gare is attempting to set up a meeting with representatives of the Jacobson and Wabek Corp. (who own considerable existing private parking areas) plus several other parking owners.

Putts-Off

George H. Quinn of 305 Yarrow road, Birmingham, was one of the players who recently represented The Colony hotel at the Inter-Resort Putting tournament held in Kennebunkport, Maine.

Owner Asks Hearing On B-1 Rezoning

At the property owner's request, the Birmingham city commission will hear arguments why a multiple-use zone lot should be changed to non-retail business to permit construction of a dental office.

On Oct. 12—quarterly rezoning-hearing date—Dr. Archie MacNaughton will tell commissioners why he'd like a corner lot at Southfield and Townsend changed to B-1. It's now R-7.

The city plan board July 15 considered the petition, then recommended its denial because it would be "spot zoning."

Pioneer Stars Grab First Playoff Win

The Pioneer All-Stars staged a come-from-behind victory over Northwest Detroit in the first game of the Babe Ruth district playoffs held at Birmingham high school Tuesday evening.

Birmingham filled the bases in the first inning on a single by Craig Kirby and two errors, but couldn't score.

An unearned run by the Detroit team in the fourth gave the lead when Mike Plomes collected the first hit of Karl Kalocsay and scored on a walk and an error.

These NET revenues, according to Finance Director James Parkins, amount to about $32,000 annually. The parking system has about $18,000 available for system improvements, he said.

KALOCZAY provided the big blow in the three-run sixth inning, however, when he doubled home the winning runs.

Terry McGovern led off the inning with his second straight hit and Bob Townsend tripled off the center field fence to bring home the tying run.

After two squeeze bunts went awry, Jim Farrell walked to get Craig Kirby to set up Kalocsay's double.

Kalocsay struck out eight, walked only one and gave up only two hits, both of them to Plomes. He also had the six hits made by the Pioneers.

The Birmingham Satellite All-Stars had the Millard championships tonight at Birmingham high school in the second round playoff. Game time is 5 p.m.

Debate Still On, So B'ham Waits For State Check

Michigan's financial plight has been felt in Birmingham.

It's only a $3,056 pinch, but that's enough to be noticed.

City Finance Director James Parkins asked Liquor control commission comptroller John Q. Adamson how come the $3,056 in returnable portion of retailers' license fees hasn't been paid Birmingham.

IN A LETTER this week to Purkins, Adamson pointed out that he didn't want to pay.

Adamson said the checks are in the state auditor's office. He's holding them until the state legislative decision has to be made to get the money into the state treasury.
