

Named Comptroller

Ernest R. Ross of Birmingham has been named comptroller for Dodge division, Chrysler Corp., according to an announcement by general manager M. C. Patterson.

Ross joined Chrysler Corporation in 1950 at Plymouth as a cost analyst, and in 1955 became assistant manager of the corporation's product cost control section. In 1956 he was named manager of the operations analysis section of the corporate finance staff, and in 1957 he was promoted to assistant comptroller of the Chrysler-Imperial division.

In 1958 he was named comptroller for the corporation's general sales office. He was graduated from Michigan State and Detroit Business Universities. Ross was born April 15, 1927, in Detroit, Michigan. He lives at 2734 Derby, Birmingham, with his wife and daughter.

WHY?

Are Mothers-in-Law Unpopular?

In the days of marriage by capture, mothers were naturally enraged and urged kinsmen to retaliate against tribesmen of the kidnapper in great public displays of grief and wrath.
 Even after seizure marriage gave way to purchase of brides, became mock ceremonial only, the bride's mother felt duty bound to retain and display her anger. Consequently she wasn't pleasant to have around the newwed's house.
 Among primitive peoples, mothers-in-law were and still are taboo for this and other reasons.
