MOMS' Bake Sale
Birmingham unit MOMS of America will have a bake sale Friday at Nan's hat shop, 145 N. Woodward. Serving on committees are Mrs. W. Krause, Mrs. E. Harrison and Mrs. G. Hoser.

Sale Set at Cranbrook

Lynette Peters (left) of 751 Ann street and Barbara Wesley, 18553 Devonshire, both students working in the Cranbrook ceramics department under Malja Gretel, are seen in the Crafts Court at Cranbrook Academy of Art helping to set up the annual "Pot Sale" which will be held May 15 through 26. Student salesmen will be on duty during daylight hours. They stress that the term "pots" covers a wide variety of ceramics, both functional and non-functional. Included in the sale will be birds, jugs, pitchers, tea pots, vases, and pots both large and small.

B'field Village School's Annual May Festival

Bloomfield Village school's annual May Festival will be next week. Songs, stories and musical fairy tales will be enacted Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. when the kindergarten through third grades offer their "Spring Salad".

The "Americana's" will be presented Wednesday at 7:30 P. M. by grades four through six. This musical visit to early America, the mountains, opening of the West and South America will be given in songs and dances.

Mrs. Jean Kelly, fifth grade teacher, will be building coordinator. The vocal teacher, Alma Fassender, and the instrumental teacher, Joan Gasaway, plus all the other classroom teachers will be her able assistants.

The Adventurer's Club met May 5, at Mrs. N. A. Woodworth's home on Burning Bush. Some of the members of this group, which is affiliated with the Detroit Federation of Women's clubs, have been meeting together for the past 30 years to discuss timely subjects.

There were 40 guests who heard Mrs. Neil T. Kelley of Bloomfield Hills talk on "Bird Banding". Among the officers installed for the coming year by retiring president, Mrs. Wesley Mueller, were several Birmingham women—Mrs. Woodworth, Mrs. E. W. Purcell and Mrs. D. L. Symes.

Another busy woman is Mrs. Howard J. Thomsen of Ardmore drive. She was a model in the AAUW fashion show yesterday at Cranbrook auditorium.

Last weekend she entertained 50 guests until the wee small hours at the Village Playser's successful Saturday night performance of the very difficult Tennessee Williams play, "A Streetcar Named Desire". Mrs. Thomsen is Blanche in the play and admitted to being full of bruises because of the fervor in which the actors enacted their roles.

Her guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mosher, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Purdy, Charles Blunt, Mrs. W. C. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Etter.

Enjoying an overnight campout this weekend will be girl scouts of Troop 682.

Springdale Park will be headquarters for 23 girls who will be working on merit badges. Mrs. Robert Nadal of Birmingham is the camperafter. Accompanying the girls will be their leader, Mrs. Gordon S. White, and troop mothers, Mrs. James Barron, Mrs. Paul Clayton and Mrs. Fred Cowin.

The Cub Scouts and their dads took in a Tiger game last Saturday afternoon. The boys were real thrilled with the Tiger's victory.

The Hamilton Pattersons of Westwood road enjoyed their annual stay at Farmington Country club in Virginia during Garden Week this year.

Joined for a week of their stay by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tyler of Haverford, Pa., Mrs. Patterson and her daughter enjoyed several garden tours while the men golfed. Their favorite was at "Wit's End"—a small pink flower garden with a pool.

Mrs. Jasper B. Reid of N. Glenbury road enjoyed a smooth trip to New York City—by Jet also. Her week there was highlighted by the plays, "First Impressions" and "Marriage-Go-Round" as well as a dinner party given by her new and wife, the Edward G. Reids of Brooklyn.

Andersons in Miami
Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Anderson of Bellevue trail, Birmingham, are guests of the Mrs. Anderson hotel while vacationing in South Florida. Mr. Anderson, associated with Anderson Aircraft, Radio Co., Birmingham, is also conducting business in the Miami area.

Tri-Deltas Meeting
Birmingham Tri-Deltas will meet at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. James Foster, 6725 Colby lane. Following dessert, a brief business meeting to discuss plans for a theater party which the group is planning for June 27 at 7 p.m. at the Northland Playhouse. Mrs. T. P. Marker will give a book report.
