Willard Holts Tell of Interesting World Tour

Flying with a small group, accompanied by a tour director, Mr. and Mrs. Willard H. Holt's recent round the world tour was a series of exciting experiences.

Among the places visited were Honolulu, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Manila, Djakarta and Bali. Spending a few days to a week in Thailand, Cambodia, Singapore and India, Nepal, Kashmir and Ceylon, they also toured Egypt, Lebanon, Israel, Turkey, Greece, Italy and Spain.

One of the most impressive sights in India was their approach, by plane, to Agra, site of the Taj Mahal, the night of the Festival of Lights. The town was ablaze with tiny lights in commemoration of the coronation of an Indian God.

Another most interesting night was spent on the desert in a tent whose inner walls were beautifully applied. Riding out from Cairo by camel, they viewed the sphinx and pyramids, then proceeded to the encampment where they were served an elaborate Arabian dinner on trays, while they sat around in a circle. Before retiring they were entertained by a magician and dancing girls.

They lived on a houseboat for three days in Kashmir. The hand-woven articles ordered here were shown to them by a Persian merchant who called himself "Subhana, the Worst." He was colorfully dressed, smoked a water pipe and served them a dinner consisting of 13 courses.

Among other interesting people the Holts met was Mr. Percie Norkey, author of "Tiger of the Snows," Tenzing, as he is known in this Himalaya mountain kingdom, is the Nepalese Sherpa tribesman who helped Sir Edmund Hillary conquer Mt. Everest.

They also visited Mr. and Mrs. George Melas in their home in Athens, Greece. Melas was ambassador to the United States representing Greece and had been
