B

He who lives only to fill his stomach and his materialistic appetites is destined to miss out on most of the very best enjoyments and possessions of life. No person who has lived only for fulfillment of the "hunger of the flesh" ever-acquired those precious riches that come from within one's inner resources. Truly, enduring wealth never seeks vault!

Brewster In 25-Year Ethyl Club

Benjamin Brewster, of 5360 Brookside, Bloomfield township, recently became a member of Ethyl corporation's Yacht Club. His induction into this club of veteran employees has to be in absentia, since the Brewsters are currently vacationing in Europe.

As a research representative for Ethyl's Ferndale Laboratories, Mr. Brewster provides close technical liaison with petroleum refiners. His area includes all of Canada.

BREWSTER is a 1927 mechanical engineering graduate of Harvard university. From 1928 to 1934, he was employed by the Holtzer-Cabot Electric company, Boston, as a sales engineer.

At Ethyl's research laboratories, he has served as an engineer, operations manager of the Technical Services Division (1948-52), and in his present technical-liaison capacity since 1952.

Another Birmingham resident, R. E. Scales, 341 Westwood, was honored at the banquet for having completed 30 years of service with Ethyl. Scales is general manager of the Ferndale Laboratories.

OTHER Birmingham-area men having 25 or more years with Ethyl include Earl Bartholomew, 224 Yarmouth; H. J. Chalk, 230 Big Beaver; H. F. Green, 1841 Devonshire; J. R. Howard III, 720 Chesterfield; B.
