

Bailey Named Assistant To President

Richard O. Bailey, 1893 Maryland, Birmingham, director of public relations for Burroughs corporation, today was named assistant to president Ray E. Eppert.

Eppert, in making the announcement, pointed out that the new position was in addition to Bailey's public relations post.

BAILEY WAS appointed director of public relations in January, formerly being manager of the sales development department of Burroughs division.

With Burroughs since 1947, Bailey is a graduate of the University of South Dakota and joined Burroughs in the sales department after service with the Air Force.

He worked in the Sioux City, Iowa, branch as a salesman and in the central region headquarters at Omaha, Neb., before being transferred to Detroit in 1949 and assigned to specializing in applications of Burroughs products.

He was named manager of the sales training department in 1952 and assistant to the general sales manager in 1954.

Moloney Returns From Lecture Tour

Dr. James C. Moloney, 414 Arlington, recently returned from a lecture trip to Tulsa, Okla., where he showed his film, "Souls of Africa."

In Topeka, Kansas, at the Menninger Foundation, he showed his pictures, "Island Hopping in Polynesia" and "The Okinawas."

The Polynesian film emphasizes that racial prejudice is not a natural characteristic with primitive peoples.

Stress Need To Invest In America

Raymond T. Perring, president of the Detroit Bank and Trust Co. and general chairman of the Detroit Invest-in-America Committee, said leaders in Detroit and Michigan business and civic life are actively supporting Invest-in-America Week which is now being observed throughout the nation.

Perring lives at 545 Yorbaro, Bloomfield Hills.

The state-wide program stresses the role of savings and investment in the growth of the American economic system.

Walker L. Cister, president of Detroit Edison Co., is national chairman for the second consecutive year.

Thomas F. Willmore, Jr., chairman of the Michigan Group of the Investment Bankers of America, is vice-chairman of the Detroit and Michigan Committee, and William L. Hurley, a partner of Baker-Simonds and Co., is secretary-treasurer.

Committee chairmen include Donald F. Valley, chairman of the National Bank of Detroit, Wayne; Walter E. Auch, partner of Bache & Co., education, and James P. Chapman, president of James P. Chapman, Inc., public relations.

This week's theme is "Money at work means men at work." It is being stressed at meetings of civic clubs, women's groups and other organizations. It is being publicized in literature distributed to employees and customers.

Local JA Companies Win Awards

Two Birmingham Junior Achievement companies have won industry awards in JA's annual southeastern Michigan industry award contest held in Detroit recently.

Award winning companies were Kimberfield Products, sponsored by Chrysler corporation, missile division; and Tri-B-K, sponsored by Michigan Bell Telephone.

KIMBERFIELD products, headed by president Jack Prier, 16, of 1665 Villa, Birmingham, manufactured bath salts and was awarded an honorable mention.

A second place award in the furniture division was won by the Tri-B-K company that manufactures coat trees. Carol Coburn, 17, of 6155 Birwood, was president of the company.
