

In the little world of each of us are many little and big wrongs that are observable. Many of them are done by others, some of them by ourselves. In most cases, no doubt, when one does wrong he may become sorry he did so . . . yet unless such regret is followed by a willingness to make suitable apology, the momentary regret is empty of reform. When one is prompted by the thought of an apology, humility should move to action.

SECTION
B

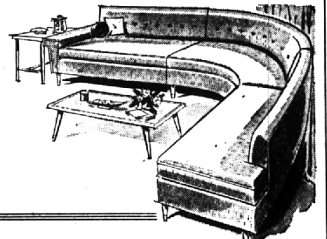

Birmingham area residents have been taking advantage of the Recreation department's family swimming classes on Monday as illustrated in the top and center pictures. Enjoying the pool (top) is Irving Anderson, 31531 Mayfair Lane, Beverly Hills, who is towing his son, Robert, on a kick board to get that timing right. In the center photo, Melvin Rentschler, 2802 Heathfield, Birmingham, has fun just splashing his youngsters. Debara, 5, and Bob, 2½. The bottom picture? That's the Municipal building on Monday night and the lights are those of the city commission room where members are figuring out ways to continue the various recreation programs.
