

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Real "Meaty" Subject

Today I've got a tale that really hits close to home—but it's okay, I've got the wife's permission to tell it. My Mrs. Marsh has been cooking hams—deliciously, I might add—for years. But always, just before she pops 'em into the oven, she slices an inch off one end. Reason: she said her mother always did that to make ham tastier. Last week, though, Grandma gave the real reason. Sure, she used to slice an inch from a ham but only when her roasting pan was an inch too short.

From where I sit, all of us do things that can't be backed up by reason or fact. Most time they're pretty silly things—particularly the petty prejudices we build. For instance, some folks may resent your preference for buttermilk at dinner, or mine for a glass of beer. If they'd stop to think "why"—they'd realize they were taking a "slice" off our friendship and for no good reason at all.

The Carat Weights Balance...But!

A $450 DIAMOND CAN NEVER BE THE EQUAL OF A $1,000 DIAMOND WHEN PURCHASED FROM A RELIABLE DEALER

Claims to that effect can be made. But, given equal carat weights and different prices, the lower priced diamond automatically has less of the desired qualities that characterize the other diamond. Obviously, this does not apply only to the prices used as examples above.

Know your dealer. In him must be placed your trust for value received. The reliable dealer is one who has pride in his profession, whose integrity is a matter of public knowledge. Aside from his integrity, he will never give less than fullest value because his living depends on your future purchases. If he appraises your "bargain" diamond as value less than paid for, it is not sour grapes, but the judgment of one who knows diamonds.

Know The 4 C's Of Diamond Value

Know that every diamond has four characteristics that determine its value—Carat weight, Color, Clarity and Cut. A $100 diamond can have as perfect a combination of these as a $1,000 diamond. The difference will be size. The individual investing in a diamond should ask himself whether it's size alone or the best combination of the four C's he wants in his diamond. A reliable dealer will give the latter.
