

Seaholm Rated as Darkhorse in EML Race

Cage Team Preparing For Opener

Seaholm basketball Coach Lou Parry is looking forward to surprising a few teams in the Eastern Michigan league this year.

If one or two question-mark players come through, then the Maples must be rated as a dark-horse threat in local competition. Ferndale, which lost the highly touted Toy Palmer, is still listed as the early season favorite since five juniors who saw considerable action last year have returned.

FOR THE FIRST time in several years, Parry will have that "big man for the pivot post"—proving he works out. Harry "Hap" Dunne, a 6-6 giant, needs polish and lots of it, according to Parry, but if he comes through, the Maples will be hard to stop. Backing up Dunne are such experienced players as Phil Isbell, Harry Callow, Joe Spoliar, Bill Massey, Ned Foley and Jay Madison.

OTHERS who saw considerable action last season are Jim Stephenson and Joe Okey and newcomers, Bob Sayle, Dennis Fry, Stewart Harley and Harvey Mosby give the Maples some backbone. Gallip, 6-3; Spoliar, 6-3; Sayle, 6-3; and Isbell, 6-2, will give the Maples some overall height at the forward positions and Foley, Okey and Massey all have experience in the back court. Seaholm will open the season at Royal Oak Dendero on Dec. 5.

PARTNERS-TEAMMATES Parry and Joe Schmidt of the Detroit club are partners in a boys camp in Northern Michigan called "Camp Hiawatha."

Along the Sidelines with Bill Arthur

Academically speaking, the new Groves junior-senior high school is ideal and for the scholar, it creates a perfect situation whereby students will be able to study their ABC's without being jostled either mentally or physically. This new school will have smaller classes and the teachers will be able to spend more time with the students which is considered to be the best type of education in the world today.

ATHLETICALLY speaking, however, it is something less than ideal.

In fact, whenever the Seaholm high school coaches pass the new school at Evergreen and 14 Mile, they involuntarily wince.

This wince is not one of envy because of the teachers' facilities at the new school since Seaholm is not that old, but because they are slightly envious whenever they see athletes cavorting about.

For example, Seaholm football Coach Carl Lemle has the jitters every time he thinks about the Groves junior high school team.

WHILE DISCUSSING things other than the Seaholm and Groves one day, Lemle said the Groves team was the "biggest and the best junior high team" he'd ever seen.

This is high praise indeed from the coach who has handled his own teams for some seven years.

All Lemle can see at the moment are 220 pound tackles and guards playing for Groves when they could be toiling under the Seaholm banner.

SEAHOLM SWIMMING Coach Jay Myers is another who watched the construction of the new school with tears in his eyes.

He had good reason. Myers is currently in a rebuilding program since his last two teams have been hit hard by students who have somehow managed to garner enough credits to participate in commencement exercises and he's looking for anybody who can swim.

HIS COUNTERPART at Groves Jim Gilster, has four sophomores—and from the words that emanate from that territory, these youngsters can swim—but it is generally agreed that four sophomores do not make a team.

This is the general situation that will be found in all the athletic departments of the schools since the Birmingham school district will be split in two from this day forward.

Fans of Seaholm and future supporters of Groves can expect the teams to be only so-so during the next four or five years because that's how long it takes to build championship teams after the school district has been split.

THERE ARE exceptions to the rule of course such as Dearborn Edsel Ford and Pontiac Northern which are two schools who produced winning teams within the first two years.

These are the exceptions and perhaps one of the two Birmingham high schools will make that exclusive list but it is doubtful.

For as one coach puts it, Seaholm will have only 1,200 students next year and Groves won't even have a senior class.

Yes sir, the situation is ideal—academically speaking of course. Athletically, it will be murder.

But then, as one coach pointed out, the kids are not in school to play football, basketball or baseball.

They are supposed to be there to obtain an education.

Sintz Put Among Top Ten Tankers

Pete Sintz, one of the most outstanding swimmers ever to splash in Seaholm high's pool, is rated among the world's top ten 200 meter freestyle swimmers.

The story appeared in "Swimming Times," magazine and his former coach, Jay Myers, knows of only six swimmers who have had faster times than the ex-Seaholm.

SINTZ was ranked following his performance at the Pan American games where he swam the anchor leg on the U.S. 800 meter relay team.

The younger team not only won the championship, but broke the Pan-Am record and set a new world mark.

Sintz tied the 50-yard freestyle national high school record last year as a senior at Seaholm and then set a new national record in the 100-yard freestyle.

The youngster is now a sophomore at Indiana University.

It used to be that high school swimming teams tried to schedule a "breather" for the opening meets in order to have a little extra time to get in shape.

No so for Seaholm high and Groves Pointe will meet next Tuesday in the Maples' pool.

BOTH THESE schools are tops in their respective conferences and this type of meet is usually reserved for the top schools.

Groves Pointe is always in the title picture of the Border Cities league and Seaholm has long been a dominant factor in the EML conference.

Seaholm swimming Coach Jay Myers has a few problems this year, however.

LAST YEAR, both Groves Pointe and Seaholm had strong teams and they split in their two meetings.

This year, Groves Pointe still has a strong team while Seaholm is in a rebuilding stage.

All is not lost, however, because the Maples tanks have improved strongly in the diving class and have several top-rated first line swimmers.

IT IS THE depth of the team that is an unknown factor in Tuesday's meet. Myers believes the team will be decided by two points.

There are five high school All-Americans on this year's team and they include Dennis Collins, Bill Driver, Bill Anderson, Jim Elliott and Bob Sintz.

Seaholm, which placed second in the state meet to Ann Arbor last year, is the defending champion of the Kimball relays, General Bowl relays and the Pioneer Relays.

In 11 years, the Maples have racked up a tremendous record of 105 wins, only 22 losses and two ties. They have won 10 EML dual meet championships and 10 dual meet championship titles.

TWO RECORDS SET Two new track records were set and one tied at University of Detroit this spring. Junior George Heger, tied the university's 100-yard dash record with time of 9.8 seconds. Junior Paul Maloney set the 220-yard high hurdles record with a time of 25.4 seconds.

Sophomore Danny Watkins jumped to a record 24 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

IN THE NEXT three weeks, the Cranes will be on the road for four straight road games and will not play before a home crowd until they meet Kennedy again on Jan. 16.

In addition, McMahon had, at one time, four veterans around which to build a good team.

The past tennis is correct because Roger Rothenberger suffered an injury during the football season and will not return until after Christmas vacation.

ANOTHER veteran, captain John Hayden, is slowly recovering from an injury sustained in gridiron action and will miss at least the first three ballgames.

Jim Williams, who fell behind his studies during the football campaign, has been hitting the books and it is not known when he will return.

That left McMahon with Larry Weiss as the only cager with any varsity experience.

THERE ARE, however, four players trying out for the team that have looked good in practice, according to the coach.

These include a transfer student, John Sealey, Dave Kessling, George Blanchard and Dick Gildersleeve.

If they don't pan out, McMahon can look forward to a long season.

STARRED AS SAILOR Harold (Dutch) Lauer, who holds two career scoring records in football at University of Detroit, was a starting halfback on the 1918 Great Lakes Naval Training Station football team which was undefeated and won the 1919 Rose Bowl game. Lauer played for Detroit before and after World War I. He scored 262 points and 42 touchdowns.

Getting Ready

Baron Coach Finally Gets A 'Big' Player

Bloomfield Hills basketball Coach Hal Trott is walking around school these days with a dazed look in his eyes.

Nobody can really blame him because for the first time since he has been coaching the cagers at Bloomfield Hills, Trott has a player who can dunk the ball.

For those who do not know the sport of basketball and for those who don't care, a player who can dunk a ball is one who falls enough and who can jump high enough to push it through the hoop.

THIS IS a desirable trait in basketball players. The player that has this quality is one toward whom the crowd happens to be six feet four inches tall.

He can also jump. OF COURSE, Trott has to fill out the other positions on the team and he may be hurting somewhat since there is only one veteran on the team.

Add this to the fact that the 6-4 jumping jack needs polish in the art of getting to the basket and also some help in learning how to play defense and it can easily seem that the Barons still face a rough road ahead.

Top candidates for the team are Tom Maron, Bruce Billings, Fred Jaynes, Art Tegeons, Joe Pullin, Gordon Walker and Joe Krause.

The other positions on the 10-man squad are open for grabs, according to Trott.

Jay Coach Has Only One Vet

Southfield Coach Will Steinke, another mentor who will be directing a new sport this winter, is one who will probably find the going rough during the first half of the season.

The Jay coach has only one veteran back this year and all of them on the short side for the game of basketball.

THERE IS ONE cager, Ed Schaff, who will probably get the nod at center, because he is the veteran player on the squad. Schaff is 6-2 1/2.

Next in height is the lone veteran, Gordon Ford, a forward who stands 6-2.

None of these cagers are liable to scare anyone when they walk on the floor since most schools can boast of at least one 6-6 player or two or three.

STEINKE SAYS the players will have to make up in hustle and play what they lack in height, but there is no way a player can make up for a lack of experience.

Other players who are trying to earn one of the starting assignments are Ken Schaeffer, Jim McGuffin, Tom Deaney, Bob Dent and Phil Svalva.

Schaeffer is a 6-1 forward along with Jim McGuffin who stands at even six feet.

Guard Delaney stands 5-11 and backcourt man Dent is 5-9 as is Svalva.

Southfield will start the campaign on Nov. 17 and then host Ferndale and then will return to the home court on Saturday to meet Hazel Park.

Local Athletes Earn Letters

Three Birmingham area residents who attend Western Reserve Academy in Cleveland recently earned letters for football recently at the recent season.

John Shiltz, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Thum, 1226 Dorchester, Birmingham, was awarded a letter for playing right half while Fred and William Coffin, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Coffin, 1715 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills, also received letters. Fred played end and William was fullback on the team. The trio had an opportunity to visit their parents recently when Western Reserve played Cranbrook here.

PLAYED SIX BOWL TEAMS University of Detroit's football teams have met six post-season bowl teams since 1921. The Titans played Washington and Jefferson, 1922 Rose Bowl team, in 1921; Duquesne, Orange Bowl, in 1922; and the Yellow Jackets in 1923.

At the other end of the tape measure are Jones at 6-3; Sam Kountoupes, 5-7; Rick Foss, 5-5; and Gus Kountoupes who stretches to a full 6-4.

The Yellow Jackets will open the season on their home court, with Emanuel Christian of Pontiac, on December 8.

Deer Kill Pace Same As Year Ago

LANSING, Nov. 25—Early reports from the Conservation Department's district field offices indicate deer kill was generally the same as last year during the opening days of Michigan's regular and special firearm deer seasons.

Hunters harvested approximately 38,000 whitetails during the 1958-59 seasons in 1958.

WHILE SNOW aided tracking throughout much of the state's deer country, in some areas of the upper peninsula it hampered hunting activity.

Upper depths of 28 inches were reported in some parts of the Escanaba district.

In some sectors of the upper and northern lower peninsulas, extremely cold weather cut down the hunters' time in the woods.

Nevertheless, gun pressure appeared equal to last year or even somewhat greater with an estimated 400,000-plus hunters afield.

HUNTERS ABOVE the Straits hunted light to normal kill. By Tuesday morning, November 17, southbound cars had brought 31 deer and 3 bears across the Mackinac Bridge.

The department's upper peninsula districts reported slightly more hunters in the far east end and about normal numbers in the central area and parts of the west end.

That left McMahon with Larry Weiss as the only cager with any varsity experience.

THERE ARE, however, four players trying out for the team that have looked good in practice, according to the coach.

These include a transfer student, John Sealey, Dave Kessling, George Blanchard and Dick Gildersleeve.
