

2 MSU Extension Classes Still Have Openings

Birmingham residents still can enroll in two informal courses offered here this fall by Michigan State University—"Ethics for Moderns" and "Faces of a Giant." The two courses are being offered at Birmingham under the auspices of the MSU program of liberal arts education for adults in cooperation with the Birmingham public schools.

"Ethics for Moderns" will examine some of the fundamental concepts and principles underlying our political world. Teaching the course will be Dr. Lewis Zerby, of the M.S.U. department of philosophy.

THE CLASS MEETS Wednesday evenings from 8 to 10 for 10 weeks, beginning Sept. 30 at Birmingham high school.

"Faces of a Giant: The USSR Today" is intended for all adult who feel a sense of responsibility for learning about Russia, its natural resources, its people, its ambitions and prospects.

The class meets Wednesday evenings from 8 to 10 for 10 weeks beginning Sept. 30 at Birmingham high school.

Interested adults are invited to enroll at the second-class sessions.

Additional course information can be obtained from Richard L. Featherstone, administrative assistant, Birmingham public schools.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT SINGLE-INJURY CANCER

● Fibroids ● Gasoline Blipge

Q. Can cancer be caused by injury?

A. Many readers keep asking this question. Continued irritation or repeated tissue injury may lead to cancer but it is doubtful whether a single injury can. Breast cancer may be an exception. (In a study of 920 women with breast cancer, 120 remembered some slight injury before trouble developed.) In most other cases of single-injury cancer, the growth is usually noticed shortly after the injury. Recent studies suggest that quite a long time elapses between the very first start of the cancerous process and the development of outward signs of trouble. If this proves true, a cancerous growth might smolder along for months before it would become noticeable. Internal cancers might take longer to develop enough to cause recognizable signs. It seems reasonable to say that, in general, an injury today isn't followed by cancer tomorrow or next week.

"Ooops," is Ross Faustino's reaction as one of his students drops something—her teacher, Faustino, a Detroit policeman will be teaching Judo here through the Birmingham "Y".

'You'll Flip Over This,' Says Birmingham YMCA

"Maximum efficiency with minimum effort" is the underlying principle of Judo. It is known as the "marly art of self defense."

Judo is also recognized by the National AAU as an amateur competitive sport.

To many it is a "way of life." Judo teaches discipline, and the utmost in skill and stamina, is many things—to the beginner an exciting rough-and-tumble sport; to the canny veteran a no less thrilling, infinitely subtle counterpoint of movement to the active man or woman of any age, an enjoyable way to "keep fit."

To everyone, however, Judo—with its wide vocabulary to technique—affords opportunity to achieve, with practice, success and satisfaction.

Increasing numbers of women and girls, both here and in Japan, have become intrigued with the art and, although they do not compete, many have achieved a high degree of proficiency in Karate and Randori.

Ross Faustino, by profession a policeman in the third precinct, Detroit has achieved the sought-after rank of Black Belt. He is also president of the Detroit Judo club which is recognized by K.O. NANI JUDO, Yudanshakai, Judo, Black Belt Federation of the U.S.A.; Kodokan Judo Institute, Tokyo, Japan; and the Amateur Athletic Union of the U.S.A.

Faustino will conduct the eight week class in Judo through the Birmingham YMCA for persons 17 years and older. The class will be limited to 20 members. For further information call the Birmingham YMCA.

TODAY A Shiai or Judo tournament of Japan is much the same as a pennant race in America. Rank in Judo is a symbol of great achievement and is respected by all members of a lesser degree.
