FOR AND ABOUT TODAY'S

Bill's Always There When MARS Calls

WING LAKE—Bill Springer, 6065 Franklin road, has a standing date every Wednesday at precisely 8 p.m. The 14-year-old answers "AFRAZA" as the United States Air Force calls the roll.

Bill, a student at Bloomfield Hills Junior high school, is a "ham."

He received his first license to operate a radio at a tender 11 years, when the Federal Communications commission granted his novice license.

BILL GOT HIS Technicians class license a year and a half later, and recently his General class permit. The FCC requirements were pretty stiff—he not only had to be able to receive 18 words per minute, he needed some knowledge of high school physics and algebra. Bill started the ninth grade two weeks ago.

BUT, HE'S been interested in electronics "ever since I can remember." He has been building transmitters in his basement workshop, filled a room with high fidelity and stereo equipment, taped his own "newscasts," introduced friends to the world of electronics and sound, and interested them in it.

Bill plays a mean trombone and has earned the 15 merit badges an Eagle scout needs to win a Silver Palm.

But the height of his young career was reached July 30 when he became part of MARS—the Military Affiliated Radio System. As part of a nation-wide network of amateur radio operators who can be called upon to relay messages when needed—especially those of a non-military nature.

Next Wednesday, the following Wednesday, the week after that, Eagle scout needs to win a Silver Palm.

Field Day's Far Away But Race is Tight Now

Plans for the annual Field day have finally gotten under way. Field day, which is the only activity of its type in this area, will be presented Oct. 14.

The senior class, unlike the previous class that won Field day in its junior and senior year, hasn't as yet won a Field day. It is natural therefore to believe that they will try their hardest to win this year.

UNFORTUNATELY, these plans conflict with those of the junior class who also like to win this year. This philosophy has its drawbacks. The sophomore class would also like to win this year. This philosophy has its drawbacks. The sophomore class would also like to win this year. This philosophy has its drawbacks.

THE CLUB, which has a membership of 14 students, is an interest club for students with literary talent.

The students who are interested in the American Field Service met, along with their parents, in the little theater last Thursday night. Students wishing to study on the summer or winter study plan, as well as those who wish to share their homes with exchange students, heard a short address by Jean Pierre, General and Gloria Mendoza, foreign exchange students for this year, after which some slides of England were shown by Emily Watson.

Prosenium welcomed a new address last Thursday night when they held their first meeting of the year. Last spring the club had a speaker, Miss Roberta Arnold to Columbia university to study. She was replaced by Mr. Benz.

Southfield High 'Way, 'Way up There Down at Southfield

Southfield high seniors scored well above average on the nationally-administered National Merit Scholarship Qualifying test, Apr. 28.

Those achieving the test's top score were Terry Clark, Howard Knutson, Bob Knutson, Diane Kuroop, Judy Kollen, Kathy Leighton, Judy Morken, Campbell Moore, Brian Pierce, Gloria Sauser, Dennis Smallwood, Leonard Spicer and Donald Symons.

OF THE 525,000 who took the test this spring, 10,000 were selected as semi-finalists to be tested again in December. Final winners are eligible for business and industrial groups.

The test is administered by Science Research associates, and is sponsored by the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Institute.

In 1958 Southfield had nine semi-finalists and one final winner, Lenore Hobbs, now at Michigan State university. Bob Ewart, a 1957 finalist, is now attending the University of Chicago.

A SERIES of formal lectures will be given at Southfield to familiarize students with note-taking and formal lecture procedure. Mrs. Rita Foster presented the first lecture in the series last week on the subject of note-taking.

Future lectures have been planned on "Development of the Novel," "The E-z-z-z," "Mass Media," "Poetry," and "The Drama."

They Get Back In Business as Summer Ends

Plans for a schedule of high school assemblies to give teenagers the opportunity to participate in Junior Achievement were announced by the president of Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan, James M. Roche.

Roche said school assemblies programs to be conducted by JA staff personnel will be held for high school juniors and seniors.

Awards, travelships and special incentive prizes for outstanding work are available to both members and companies in the Junior Achievement program.

Teenagers in Junior Achievement actually manage the entire business affairs of small JA manufacturing and service companies which in southeastern Michigan alone this past school year sold over $153,000 worth of products and services. They operate under guidance from adult advisers from counseling firms.

J.A.'S ELEVENTH program year in southeastern Michigan starts during the first two weeks of Oct. Over 100 southeastern Michigan
