

Sonic Boom Frightens B'ham Area

Birmingham area residents, along with thousands of others who were awakened by the sonic boom that shook the tri-county area last week, can expect more of the same.

Defense officials said that more jets will be flying over area as part of a practice program and that many times the pilots do not realize they've broken the sound barrier.

MANY HOMEOWNERS reported that some fragile articles in their homes had been knocked off shelves and broken. The blast seemed to follow a line from north to south through Ferndale to Birmingham.

Birmingham police were flooded with calls. In all, they had more than 100 calls asking what explosions had hit the city.

Bea Sawielle wishes to announce to her clientele, that she is still associated with "Beas Gay 90's" Beauty Salon.

Hold Services For Retired Cranbrook Worker

Funeral services were held yesterday for the 63-year-old retired boiler operator of Cranbrook school who was found in the school pool the apparent victim of an accidental drowning.

Recovered from the bottom of the pool was James Napier, who was retired by the school on October 1.

NAPIER's body was found by Oakland county sheriff's skin-diver Sunday night. He was last seen on Thursday.
A native of Scotland, he is survived by a sister in Glasgow.
Services were held at the Manley Bailey funeral home and interment was at White Chapel cemetery following cremation.
