DOWN TO EARTH Horticulturists Exchange Ideas

By ALICE WESSELS BURLINGAME
Special Writer for The Birmingham Eccentric

Your columnist just returned from the American Horticultural council meeting in Rochester, N. Y. There I had an opportunity to renew friendships in the field of horticulture from all over the United States. Directors of parks, arboreta, garden centers, specialty growers and writers convened to exchange ideas.

A highlight was an address by Andre De Vilmorin from Paris, who represents seven generations of the growers. He described his people and their love of intimate gardens with "small flowers." At the time of the Napoleonic Wars they were drying sugar beets.

THE FIRST DOUBLE tuberous rooted begonias and peonies came from France. Father David Le-monié Duval and Meiland (peace and happiness roses) are names which growers all appreciate as pioneers in horticulture. He says that in the future public gardens will fill leisure time needs for all and that gardens will provide good lessons in garden practice.

Andre De Vilmorin is especially interested in the development of flowers for long lasting qualities after being cut. The nice part of this new contact was an invitation from him to visit in Paris.

THE SECOND HIGHLIGHT of the meeting was a talk by Dr. Donald Watson of Michigan state university who had just returned from a six-month trip around the world. His interest was in horticulture teaching methods in the various countries.

In the suburbs of Australia one of our foremost dispensers as perin had an overhanging ad—"What to Do in Your Garden This Week." In Japan flower arrangements were evidenced in cabs of trucks, public washrooms, bars and hot dog stands. This year the Japanese were planting a tree in their gardens to celebrate the marriage of the prince.

IN AUSTRALIA all high school Off to the Ozarks
FORT BENJAMIN HARRISON, Ind.—William R. Brownfield, 848 Smith, Birmingham, will begin six month active duty training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., Oct. 18, it was announced today by Major General George E. Bush, Commanding General, VI U.S. Army corps.

In Oakland County...

George F. Taylor Named Prosecutor

George F. Taylor was named last week by Oakland county circuit judges to replace Fred C. Ziem as county prosecutor Dec. 1.

Taylor, now Ziem's chief assistant, lives at 4310 Franklin road, Bloomfield township. The 62-year-old Republican said he plans to run next year for election to the prosecutor's post.

Jan. Green will take over the circuit judgeship to which he was elected recently.

Taylor was well established in the business world when he began his participation in law and politics. He was 50 when he got his law degree.

Broomfield Revises Incorrect Figure

A report to Oakland county residents from Oakland county congressman William S. Broomfield this week listed an error, which Broomfield later corrected.

The letter gave the wrong maximum salary that social security recipients can earn. Instead of $1,800, it should have stated that those who earn more than $1,200 per year will be forced to repay the Federal government.

Detroit Water Supply Adequate, Authority Told

A guarantee from Detroit was given to the Southeastern Oakland county water authority last week, assuring that body that Detroit can supply all the water it needs.

The sumbit would come from both the Detroit river and a proposed Lake Huron pipeline. The Lake Huron line would be built by Detroit water board representative said, when Pontiac signs a contract to buy water from Detroit.

The Southeastern Oakland water authority's Engineer Manager Donald C. Egbert said the authority is planning to build $5 million in water mains and the purchase of adequate supplies from Detroit.

Pontiac Move Adds Extra Load At 2 Hospitals

A heavier load of patients is expected at William Beaumont and St. Joseph's Mercy hospitals following the move by Pontiac General hospital to exclude but Pontiac and Pontiac area patients.

The hospital's decision to close its doors to South Oakland county residents was announced by Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator, who said that in the past Pontiac General has accepted indigent patients from "around" and has been handling "more than its share" of welfare and county patients.

Beaumont and St. Joseph's Mercy hospital spokesmen said they would not exclude patients from any area.

Madison Heights Leaders Dubious, But Suit Remains

While several Madison Heights councilmen expressed doubts last week about the city's suit against the proposed Twelve Town drain, the city moved ahead with its suit. The council approved hiring of another attorney to assist City Attorney Eugene Field in preparation of the suit.

Following the move a Madison Heights councilman, Henry F. Pickering, said he was ready to sit down with the mayors of other affected communities and discuss the situation further.

Earlier other South Oakland cities advised that they would not sign a contract for the bounding drain, which Madison Heights wants, until the Twelve-Town delays are eliminated.

The Madison Heights suit protesting that city's $2.8 million share of the Twelve Town costs is holding up work on the $47 million project, which the county had hoped to start this year.
