will not want to attend a game where there is even a possibility of them being mixed up in a fight. Birmingham police will find, as have other departments, that you can put only so many patrolmen on duty at a game. Birmingham athletic director Frank Whitney already has a slight problem on his hands in the form of a firecracker-throwing youngster.

IN FACT, the person may be older—nobody seems to know. Birmingham high schools are well patrolled and in an effort to catch this prankster who may seriously injure someone, Whitney has appealed to the public to report him if they see him throwing a firecracker. It is nearly impossible to catch someone like this in a crowd of 6,000 unless the general public helps. That is how these "little incidents" usually start. And the ironic part about it all, there is little that can be done.
