Junior Players Show To Open in Franklin

FRANKLIN—Not one, but two plays will be offered this weekend by the Franklin Village Players. Thursday and Saturday, at 8:30 p.m., June Austen's "Pride and Prejudice" will be enacted in the big tent show on the village green. Under the direction of adult advisors, Mrs. and Mrs. John Baker and student director Dick Lee, the cast—Rob Esterline, Jane Ensign, Mary Bates, Blanche Albert, Carol Emmerling, Kathy Garwood, Ruthie Hacker, Robin Odle, Grigg Larkins, Judy Ortiz, Ron Borgquist, Abba Hierta, Dawn Ristow, Elaine Chapin, Bill Bieker and John Adams—have prepared the group's first period play. Costumes have been the summer project of Mrs. Don Hacker, Mrs. Harlow Bates and Mrs. Don Odle.

ON ALTERNATE nights, Friday and Sunday, another cast under the direction of adult advisor Mrs. Faye Hawk and student director Doug Van Dyke will present Cornelia Otis Skinner's light-hearted "Nuts In May". Taking part are Cindy Starret, Dennis Bender, Larry Hard, Cathy Lewis, Beth Jones, Janice Van Dyke, Diane Hines, Cindy Roberts, Ron Garwood, Connie Lee, Judy Schuler, Marilyn Owens, Don Emmerling, Alan Young and Mike Loupe.

Technical details for both productions have been the concern of Bill Mitchell, with considerable help from Mrs. Don Odle.

THIS IS the third season the Junior Players have rehearsed all summer long. Starting from an ardent group of twenty membership now runs close to 65. Franklin, Bingham Farms, Wood Creek and Meadowdale young people from 14 to 19.

Cast members have doubled as stagehand, wardrobe maker, property makers, and make-up. An offshoot of the senior Franklin Players, the junior meet year 'round, often preparing short skits for informal presentation during the school year.

Proceeds from the two current shows have been allocated to the Franklin Community association building fund. Plans for the projected community center include an auditorium and stage which will offer both Players groups a permanent home, it is hoped.

A Volting Development

Marion E. Hodgson (left), of 25885 Farmbrook, Southfield, was among the high school and junior college teachers who studied a new approach to teaching high school physics during a 10-week summer course at Michigan State university. The new method attempts to give a sounder background in thinking and reasoning, rather than relying on the book memorization of laws and formulas. Hodgson watches Edwin Smith, Cincinnati high school instructor in an experiment to determine the flux in a coil.

Family Tells of Quakes During Trip to Montana

FRANKLIN—Three hundred miles may seem like a lot, but for the Thomas Cauley's vacationing at Great Falls, Mont. it was almost too close for comfort when the earthquakes occurred at Hebgen lake near Yellowstone park, recently.

Eager to start the new season, local bowling leagues held preliminary meetings this week. The Franklin Bowlers, (Thursday afternoon league) held a kick-off luncheon meeting at Devon club to iron out the season's details.

The Franklin Village Bowlers met at President Mrs. George Howard's home on Greenbriar Wednesday to vote on new rules for the year. They bowled every Wednesday morning at 10 at the Bloomfield bowling alleys, beginning Sept. 16 and are looking for substitutes. It's free this year.

Life at the Dick Evans home on Greenbriar is seldom dull. Not only have they had a new litter of puppies, demanding four hour feeding, "round the clock—but, one of the puppies got its head stuck in a fruit jar and it was a frantic struggle to extricate him in time. It took a roof material head and a well placed hammer blow.

They spent the weekend-end at a farm near Madison, Wis., witnessing for the first time, a genuine threshing party.

David Hughes is home from a summer job in California till he enrolls for his junior year at U of M next week.

The pit for steaming clams 'n' lobsters will be dug in the Dale Larsen and Garden Way this week. They'll be hosting the Col. any Hill crowd's annual sea food picnic Sept. 12 with lots of help from organizers, Mrs. Dick Caskey and Mrs. Phil Price.

Dickie and Pam Quigg also of Colony Hill toured Niagara Falls, Montpelier, Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire and points East with grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Vozys, before school started. This was the first time the two have shared the same trip. Each year, Mrs. Vozys has taken each child on separate vacations, but that gets to be a bit too much traveling she's decided.

The Fritz Geils of Franklin Hills are back from a month at Dyers bay (near Georgian bay) shared with good friends, the James Boenges of Foxcroft.

Susan Weed of German Mill road, flew to Connecticut with her grandmother, Mrs. Agnes Yinkley. They spent the week-end at an Arden Yinkley's.
