

Winter Brings Dangers of CO<sub>2</sub> Poison

LANSING—When temperatures go down, your chances of falling victim to carbon monoxide go up, Dr. Albert E. Hestite, state health commissioner said today.

But there are several precautions you can take to protect yourself against this deadly gas, the department added. Most of them apply to automobiles and the use of carbon fuels in stoves and appliances.

Carbon fuels include coal, charcoal, coke, wood, oil, gasoline, kerosene, natural gas and bottled gas.

SOME CARBON monoxide is formed whenever carbon-containing materials are burned. The amount of carbon monoxide increases as the air supply is reduced. If venting is adequate, the deadly gas is carried away without causing harm.

Last year 55 persons died in Michigan of carbon monoxide poisoning, almost all of them inside cars or buildings where carbon fuels were burned improperly.

To protect yourself, the health department recommends these precautions:

- 1) Never run a car's exhaust system checked and repaired or replaced if necessary. If the muffler isn't working right, carbon monoxide will leak up through the floorboards.
- 2) In cold weather, always drive with a window or vent partly open so fresh air can get in.
- 3) Never run a car's engine inside a closed garage or other building.

TO PROTECT yourself inside your home:

- 1) Check all stoves, heaters, appliances and engines that use carbon fuels to make sure that they are adjusted and vented properly. If you don't know how to do this, get someone who does.
- 2) Don't install water heaters where air doesn't circulate, such as in closets that are kept closed. An increasing number of carbon monoxide accidents have been occurring during cold weather at motels and cabins, the state health department said.
- 3) To help owners and operators of these places protect their guests against accidental carbon monoxide poisoning, the health department has just issued a pamphlet entitled, "Carbon Monoxide Hazard."

It can be obtained from the local health department offices or by writing to the Michigan department of health, Lansing 4.

They Know The Way to This Bar-B-Q

On Saturday, Sept. 26, the South Oakland Indian guides will hold their 4th annual western style barbecue at the South Oakland YMCA, 11 Mile road, east of Woodward. The proceeds are to be used for wards attaining a camp site for the boys.

The Indian Guides is a YMCA club consisting of fathers and sons—some between the ages of 6 and 12. The father and son join an Indian Guides tribe, take an Indian name and meet weekly at different members' homes.

SAGEBRUSH SHORTY and Skinny Dugan of WJBK-TV will be on hand along with the Shrine Oriental band, a magician and a trampoline demonstration by members of the South Oakland YMCA.

There will be on display at the same time a Mercedes-Benz racing car that was on the World Championship racing car team in 1928-29, several championship Soap Box Derby racers, six scale models of futuristic automobiles from General Motors Styling Division and a hydro-plane of the Miss U. S. type.

Mr. George Simon, president of the U. S. Equipment Co., Detroit, owner of the Miss U. S. I, reported the boat will be racing in the President's Cup race and may not be available in time. In this event, Miss U. S. IV, a prototype of their new boat will be available. Miss U. S. I has won every major race for the unlimited class hydro-plane but the Gold Cup.

Tickets for the barbecue are available from members of the Indian Guides, the South Oakland YMCA or at the gate to the YMCA grounds Saturday, Sept. 26.
