

Library Gets Set For Non-Readers

Tuesday September 8 is expected to be a busy day in the Boys' and Girls' department at Baldwin Public Library.

That's the day registrations will open for the next series of Pre-School Story Hours. Mrs. Ann Burch, of the staff, advises parents not to delay in registering their children—either by phone or in person—since story hour attendance will be limited to 35 boys and girls between 3 and 6 years of age.

THE BOYS' and Girls' department staff is planning a lively collection of stories, games and finger plays designed to acquaint youngsters with the fun that's found in books and to whet their appetites for future library visits.

This series of thirty-minute programs will begin Tuesday, September 16, at 10 a.m. and will continue weekly for six weeks.

BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

You currently may read about the forthcoming smaller cars to be marketed by General Motors, Ford & Chrysler. Of course, American Motors' Rambler, Packard-Studebaker's Lark, plus a variety of foreign small cars, added to the new models of the Big Three, will result in quite a change. One of our citizens this week asked this Wanderer: "Say, if they ever added the rest of the body to those little Italian isettas, would this make much of an impact on the small car market?"

Guesswork has been eliminated from Michigan fall color tour planning. The Michigan tourist council has announced it will offer prospective travelers a personalized service, telling them by individually addressed postcards when autumn color is at its best. The Council's color information plan, now in its fifth successive year, is the only one of its kind in the nation. It alerts travelers to the first showing of color in Michigan and later announces the peak of the annual autumn display as it moves from the far reaches of the upper peninsula into lower Michigan. A card or letter to the Tourist Council, Lansing 26, Michigan, is all that's needed to keep posted on Michigan's fall color season.

Carl Zwick's current series of stories on alcoholism and its treatment, appearing in The Eccentric, have aroused interest in Birmingham and as far away as New York, the Seaholm high school science instructor reported. "The Wayne County Board of education, an information bureau in New York, and other organizations and individuals have seen or heard about the articles, and have asked for copies," he said. He has received calls from Birmingham women whose husbands are alcoholics, requesting information concerning treatment facilities, those serving the Birmingham area do not seem to be known to your readers, which is not surprising," Zwick said, "since there is in Birmingham no local committee on alcoholism or information center as there are in many other parts of the state."
