Help Through Self-Expression

Walter H. Obenauf, M.D., medical superintendent of Pontiac State hospital commented that many of the activities patients take part in could not have been done except for the dedicated service provided by the community people who come to the hospital in the role of the volunteer. Above is an example of the therapy program which takes place daily at the State hospital. Mrs. W. S. Purvis Jr., (left) of Henrietta street, Birmingham, introduced a new therapy five years ago at the hospital through the use of Biblical dolls.

Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills Society Notes

from Nancy Porter

News for this column may be phoned to Mrs. Porter between 5 and 5:30 P.M. at MI 4-2880

Herbert Filbrick, United States citizen, member of the Communist party, and secret agent for the F.B.I., led three lives; but this columnist has been leading at least four lives.

While Filbrick stood in constant danger of being picked up by the police of one or the other governments, this columnist is in danger of being picked up by the little men in the white coats if she does not omit some of her activities.

So it is with regret that I must discontinue writing this column. I have enjoyed making friends with all of you via the teletube and thank you for your cooperation. My association with The Birmingham Eccentric has been a happy one.

If you have enjoyed this news, I hope that you will continue to cooperate with my successor, who, though new to the Birmingham area, has had a great deal of experience in writing and will provide an enjoyable column for you. Carol Waltz (Mrs. Robert L.) resides with her husband and two children, John, 15 years, and Robert Jr., four years old, at 212 Argle Blvd., Birmingham. At Agnes Scott college, Atlanta, Ga., she edited the literary magazine, In Great Britain during World War II she did recreational work and publicity releases for the Red Cross.

Last weekend the Waltzes and Mr. Waltz's father, E. D. Waltz, who is visiting them from Toledo, drove down to H. W. Military school, Howe, Ind., to spend Easter with son John, a freshman in the upper school. Back in Birmingham now, Mrs. Waltz is all set to start work on her first Eccentric column which will appear next Thursday.

Hospital's Annual Open House

In keeping with the modern concept of greater understanding about the country's number one health problem, Pontiac State hospital's 14th annual Open House is scheduled for May 1-3 from 1 to 4 p.m. daily. On the program will be tours, discussion groups and a variety show, produced and performed by the patients.

Ted A. Panaretos, M.S.W., community relations director, stated that patients feel that acceptance of mental illness as an illness from which recovery is possible is essential and as a result they are more willing to seek help. The Open House will take part in all of their Easter Sunday.

of the mental health week activities.

ON WEDNESDAY, Mrs. Charles Leinenkugel and Mrs. D. J. Watson Jr. will give a bridge party with proceeds going for necessary materials for the expanding and related arts and crafts work at the hospital.

Among the many Birmingham area women who devote many hours at the hospital are Mesdames William Armstrong, Arthur Peave, Philip Whelan, Harold Cooper and W. S. Purvis.

Volunteer help for the therapy program is needed as well as for many other areas in the hospital. Persons interested may contact Mrs. Rodney Craighead, 412 South Adams, Birmingham.
