Bride Wears Crystal White Gown of Organza

Four hundred guests attended the wedding of Lucille Marcea Greenwalt and Harry Taylor Parsons Saturday afternoon at the First Methodist church in Birmingham. Dr. Harry O. Martin performed the 2:30 o'clock ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Greenwalt of W. W. low lane, Birmingham. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Parsons of Pontiac.

REFLECTING the long ago elegance of the Rembrandts, the bride appeared in a crystal white gown of silk organza. The molded bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline and brief sleeves with an edging of seed pearls and crystals.

Her tiered veil of silk illusion, which fell to fingertip length, was held in place by a court cap fashioned of silk mesh and trimmed with tiny seed pearls and she carried white orchids and lily of the valley.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Linda Greenwalt, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Nancy Rice, Mrs. George Jovias, Mrs. Roger Bretthauer and Sue Harrigan. Adding pageantry to the background, the bridesmaids were identically gowned in white organza over lace tulle. The dresses were made with scoop necklines and brief sleeves.

The empire effect was again carried out with wide sashes of satin, trimmed with tiny embroidered flowers with a twisted bowknot shaping the front. They wore satin shoes and hats with halo veils and they carried ruyum lilies.

RICHARD WINTER stood as best man and seating the guests were William Mondry, S. Willie Wright, George Koebuck and Richard Wilson.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Greenwalt chose a mauve lace sheath dress and pinned pink cymbidium orchids to her clutch bag. Mother of the groom selected an ice blue sheath dress and pinned pink orchids on her purse.

Guests were greeted at Devon Gables immediately following the ceremony.

THE NEW MRS. Parsons wore a coral pink suit with black accessories for her wedding trip to New York City and the Eastern states.

Judith Kay Oliver Weds William Robert Wiltshire

First Methodist church in Birmingham was the scene Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Judith Kay Oliver to William Robert Wiltshire. Dr. Arnold F. Runkle performed the 4:30 o'clock ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Oliver of Hickory Heights drive, Birmingham. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall M. Wiltshire of Park Ridge, Ill.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, Judith wore a delustered satin with alercon lace gown designed with a scoop neckline and a bustle with large white satin roses. She carried a bouquet of white roses with cascade of stephanotis and ivy.

Maid of honor, Marsha Wiltshire, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids Barbara Biddle and Barbara Krupf wore pure silk shantung print dresses decorated with full skirts and kimono sleeves.

THEY CARRIED nosegay bouquets of carnations dyed to match flowers in the print.

Mother of the bride chose a royal blue draped chiffon sheath dress with matching accessories and white cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. Wiltshire selected a beige chiffon dress with matching accessories and corsage of brown orchids.

Anthony Raleigh stood as best man and seating the guests were Thomas Pearson, Roger M. Wilson, Jr., Richard Malla and Frederick Barton.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Brain Damage

• Caffeine & Sleep

• Chest Pain

Q. Can anything be done for a child who has heart disease? Can he learn from books?

A. Specific answers to these questions could be given only by the examining physician who would be able to determine the extent and nature of the brain damage. In general, the brain is something like the battery of your car. If one cell goes bad the entire battery is weakened. Perhaps the lights would burn but there would not be enough power to start the motor. Even though the battery is below par it is still capable of functioning at a reduced level of performance. So too, is the partially damaged brain capable of functioning within limits. The goal should be to develop the remaining mental capacities through patient and helpful instruction.

Q. If I drink a cold beverage during the evening I have trouble sleeping. Is this just in my head? or do such drinks contain stimulants?

A. The exact composition of various carbonated drinks is a trade secret, but among other things cold drinks contain caffeine. Caffeine is, of course, a stimulant. A cold drink contains about a third as much caffeine as does a cup of reasonably strong coffee.

Q. On several occasions I have had very sharp pains over my heart. Is it so severe that I can scarcely breathe. The pain lasts a kind of "catch" or sharp pain that is quite harmless. Sometimes a person will be seized with a sharp knife-like chest pain that is made worse by deep breathing. The discomfort may last several minutes. The origin of this type of pain is unknown but it does not seem to be associated with heart trouble. The important thing is to find out whether the chest pain is the harmless variety or due to some condition that requires medical treatment.
