

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Plexico Retires From GM

One of the automotive industry's engineering veterans, Robert S. Plexico, 309 Arlington, has retired after more than a quarter of a century with Chevrolet Motor division.

Chief truck design engineer at Chevrolet from 1957 to 1960, Plexico joined the company in 1934. During his career, he was associated with a number of modern developments in passenger cars, commercial and military vehicles.

Plexico was graduated from Clemson college in 1919 with a bachelor of science degree. He served in the Army during World War I.

Plexico STARTED in the auto industry 43 years ago with the Anderson Motor company as assistant engineer and chief draftsman. He left there in 1923 to go to the Warner Gear company where he became assistant chief engineer. He went to Willys-Overland as assistant chassis engineer in 1929 and then joined Chevrolet in 1934 as a project engineer on clutches and transmissions.

During World War II, as a division engineer, Plexico worked extensively on development of the 4 x 4 truck, T-17 military vehicles, 4-ton unit and jet engines.

FOLLOWING THE WAR, he was advanced to assistant staff engineer on clutch and transmission. Among assignments in that period was extensive work on the design and development of the famous Powerglide automatic transmission.

In 1952 he was appointed staff engineer in charge of truck chassis design and two years later assistant chief engineer in the same field. He was named chief truck design engineer in 1957.

A 40-year member of the Society of Automotive Engineers, Plexico has served on numerous committees of the organization. He has also been active in the Automobile Manufacturers Association, particularly the truck and bus group.

HE AND HIS wife, Marian, have two sons, Philip, now with a New York law firm, and Jon, who is employed at the GM Technical Center, Warren.

Riley Named General Mgr.

Appointment of Frank O. Riley, 2020 W. Lincoln, as general manager of Termosted's engineering department in 1933. During World War II he was a senior project engineer with GM's Fisher Body Division.

Riley succeeds the late Leo R. Schreiner. He has been director of engineering and sales for Termosted Division, which manufactures automobile hardware.

He returned to Termosted, where he was named engineer in charge of experiment and design in 1940, director of product engineering at the Termosted instrument plant at Livonia, Mich., in 1950, and divisional director of product engineering in 1952.

Local Business Opens New Store

In a "vivid" setting of red and white, the newest store of Juliard's, recently opened in the Bloomfield Plaza Shopping Center, W. Maple at Telegraph.

The new store will carry the finest in women's teens and children's footwear, backed by 27 years of experience in the shoe business.
