Children's Home Asks For Boarding Parents

The Baptist children's home, a non-profit, charitable organization serving needy children in the Detroit area, is attempting to locate families in the community who want to become boarding parents.

According to a letter from Robert W. Wright, director of the home, "Children come to us from all sorts of situations which require that they be separated from their parents. Many of these children respond better when placed with private families in the community rather than in an institutional setting. Currently we are in need of families who want to perform a Christian service for children."

Homes for teenage boys and girls are especially needed, Wright said.

THE BAPTIST CHILDREN'S home pays boarding home parents $10 per week, per child, for board and also pays for all incidental expenses. Clothing and medical and dental care are also provided by the home.

Any residents wishing to open their home to a needy child should call or visit the Baptist children's home, 4410 W. 12 Mile road (near Greenwood) for additional information.
