A horse of her own was the greatest desire of Susan Naughton, 12, 2933 E. Bradford drive, Birmingham. To win it, she had to learn all about trucks. Above, Richard W. Sinko, Dodge manager of truck sales engineering, gives her the first lesson.

Boning Up on Trucks Wins Susan a Horse

That other "Vanishing American"—the horse—may be just that to most people in this motor-conscious nation, but to 12-year-old Susan Naughton, 2933 E. Bradford drive, Birmingham, a horse to call her own is her greatest desire.
 Whenever Christmas or a birthday approached, her request was always the same: "I want a horse." Her father, John B. Naughton, general sales manager for Dodge, was sympathetic. He thought, however, that even a girl should do something to earn such a prize, if only to prove her sincerity.

"ONE OF THE things that is replacing the horse," he told her, "is the truck. There are 200 basic specifications for trucks just up to two-ton capacity. If you can learn them, I'll get you a horse."
 Susan tackled the task with determination. Richard W. Sinko, manager of Dodge truck sales engineering, gave her a specification booklet, showed her how to find the basic data. Within a week she was ready for her final examination.

AT A MEETING of Dodge regional managers and product training managers from all over the country, Susan was the surprise lecturer. She rattled off engine horsepower figures, truck wheelbases and carrying capacities to the amazement of men who work with trucks every day. Some of them confessed that even they couldn't do as well.
 Naughton is now searching the

An optimist is a driver who thinks he can beat the train to the crossing.

A pessimist is a driver who thinks he can't but keeps on going anyway.

Conference Will Keynote GOP Action

Arthur G. Elliott, Jr., chairman of the Republican committee of Oakland county, has called a meeting of all active party workers for Dec. 10 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Bloomfield Hills junior high school.
 Called an "Action Conference", the meeting will consist primarily of a post-election analysis and seminar. It is hoped that out of this will come a definite plan of action which will guide the county GOP in the two years that lie ahead.

THIS YEAR, according to Elliott, the conference has been arranged to permit even greater individual participation than before. First there will be a general session, after which there will be a division into smaller groups according to legislative district.

Each group will conduct simultaneous discussion sessions in five basic areas: Women's activities, public relations, finance, campaign operation, materials and training, precinct organization structure and technique.

DISCUSSION leaders from Bloomfield township include Mrs. Maxwell Matthews, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. E. E. Davies and Mrs. Horace Sheldon; from Birmingham, James Dickerson, and from Troy, LeGrand Terry and Robert Schwab.

Hours: 9:30 to 5:00 DAILY on Thursdays from 10:00 to 12:00 MONDAY UNTIL 8:30
