Bloomfield Hills Junior High School Bleacher Fund Sweetened by Sale

By LEE MARSHALL
Special Writer

If there is a doorbell that has not been rung in the Bloomfield Hills school district this week, it would be a surprise to the students of Bloomfield Hills junior high school.

The students have been promoting the sale of candy for a bleacher fund and the effectiveness of their salesmanship is shown by the cash receipts already totaling more than $2,000.

Student salesmen are competing for prizes. Heading the list at present are two who have sold 68 boxes each. More important to them than the prizes though are the bleachers, which will accommodate the enthusiastic fans of the football, baseball and track teams.

The sale continues through this week. Next Wednesday prizes will be awarded.

A SPANISH dinner was prepared by girls of the home economics department under the direction of Mrs. Marion VanAllen, home economics instructor at the junior high school. It was served Dec. 1.

Guests at the event were foreign language instructors Thomas Hughes, Charles Phillips and Bruce Snyder. The girls compounded all sorts of delicacies, typical of the country from which they were drawn.

THE CHOIRS and band of Bloomfield Hills junior high school will present their annual Christmas musical tonight at 8 in the gymnasium. It is entitled "Yuletide Echoes."

MARIAN HIGH Performance Lauded At Drama Festival

By CAROL JURICA
Special Writer

Nov. 26 was the big day! The Genesis drama festival was held at Mercy high school of Detroit from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Six Catholic high schools of the archdiocese of Detroit participated in the festival, presenting plays to be judged and criticized.

Next came a talk by Sr. Honora of St. Clement's about the Silver jubilee convention of the National Catholic theater conference in New York city next August.

Then, the part that everyone was waiting for—the critique of the previous plays by Mrs. Teddy Kinsey Handfield, the critic judge of the festival.

THE AFTERNOON commenced with a fanfare by University of Detroit to mark the beginning of the afternoon performance. St. Mary's of Royal Oak presented a play and then came Marian's presentation of "Seven Nuns at Las Vegas." (We never saw it done better).

Everyone enjoyed it very much, as was obvious by the great laughter and applause. And Marian didn't come home empty-handed! Kitty Eustafson, playing an elderly Irish nun, Sr. Columba, won a gold medal for acting. Congratulations, Kitty—you did a wonderful job!

Pat Flaherty was also victorious. She won a bronze medal for her part as Sr. Felicitas, the superior of the seven nuns. Congratulations, Pat!

Tuning the day was a song fest. Then came the final criticism by Mrs. Handfield of the afternoon's plays and the presentation of awards by Sr. Mary Marguerite, vice president of the National Catholic theater conference.

Mrs. Veronica E. Francis, a member of the Genesis drama festival committee won the Genesis jewel for her work. Peter Koppel of Salesian high school won the coveted actor-of-the-day trophy a medal of Saint Genesius went to Christ Cenker of Mercy high for her cover design of the Genesis Festival Souvenir Book.

Kingswood Girls See Flemish Art

By BETSY WRIGHT
Special Writer

Kingswood students are fortunate to have the opportunity of visiting the Flemish art exhibit now being shown at the Detroit Institute of Art.

After a brief film, each class will go by bus on its designated afternoon to see the show. Although a few classes have already been to the exhibit in the past two weeks, several are still due to go.

The exhibit, the only one of its kind in the world, is composed of Flemish works of sculpture, tapestry, woodwork, jewelry and primarily oil paintings done in fifteenth century Flanders.

THE ANNUAL fall formal, planned by the Cranbrook social committee, was held last Saturday at Cranbrook. Many Kingswood girls attended the much-expected event.

Cranbrook School Rev. Kinsolving Rates Applause of Students

By BOB HUGHES
Special Writer

The time between Thanksgiving and Christmas recesses is usually a very busy and rewarding period and this year is no exception. On Nov. 29, the Rev. Lester Kinsolving gave one of the most interesting sermons of the year in chapel, Rector of the Episcopal Church of Our Savior, Pasco, Wash., and former death cell chaplain of San Quentin, he was in the Detroit area leading a preaching mission at St. Martin's.

He advocated the knowing of Christ as the chief purpose of Christianity and discussed the sense of humor and masculinity of Jesus.

THE WEEKEND of Dec. 2, 3 and 4 was one of the busiest of the year. Most of Cranbrook's seniors took the college entrance examination boards on Saturday.

The Scholastic aptitude test was taken in the morning by National merit semifinalists and others and the achievement tests were given in the afternoon. The new writing sample test was given for the first time.

In the evening the annual fall formal was presented in the dining hall by the Junior social committee. With "Hernando's Hideaway" as the theme, it featured the band of Clark Williams.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON final rehearsal began for the "Messiah", which will be presented Sunday evening, Dec. 18, in the Kingswood auditorium by the combined glee clubs of Cranbrook and Kingswood.

The public is cordially invited to attend the fall presentation of Crispington, Cranbrook's Dramatics club next Friday or Saturday, Dec. 9 and 10, at 8:15 in the Cranbrook auditorium. Featuring Kingswood students Kathy Mansfield, Winky Skinner and Marj Rapoport, and Cranbrookians Fred Roth, Mike Hilder and Lanny Howe, it will be a presentation of
