

Franklin Church Circles Combine For Yule Luncheon

FRANKLIN — Dispensing with separate circle meetings this month, the combined membership of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Franklin Community Church will hold a Christmas luncheon and general business meeting Tuesday at noon.

Mrs. Ralph Pearson, member of the Royal Oak story teller's league will present a Christmas story. Nursery supervision will be offered by Mrs. D. J. Crawford and Mrs. Coleman Foster is taking reservations for the luncheon.

WCSA president Mrs. John Harris said the program is open to the public.

Local Couple Mark Golden Anniversary

FRANKLIN — Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Facer of 4607 1/2 Canal road celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday with 15 guests sharing the afternoon affair.

Their children, Norman Facer of Walnut Lake, Mrs. Ted Hartgrave of Moose, Wyo., and Mrs. George Cameron of Birmingham arranged most of the details of the occasion. Five grandchildren were also present.

Out-of-town friends and relatives came from Moose, Wyo., as well as from Lansing, Saginaw, Port Huron, St. John, Elsie and Ovid.

The Facer's have lived in Franklin for 40 years.

Robert Kerr, Jack Bloods and Wendell Lloyd comprise a singing quartette and the Franklin band has agreed to present a gay program of "lively" Christmas music. This will be topped off by refreshments and a Christmas skit by Den 7 and appropriate closing by Den 6.

post and Melvin Wells, 2440 Hoover, is in the race for clerk. In Beverly Hills, Councilmen Ted Shurtliff and John McClanahan said this week that they will run for re-election. Dr. Douglas Wood stated he was undecided.

IN SOUTHFIELD CITY, council petitions have already been filed by Tom Rowley, 28070 Stuart; Arthur Becker, 25275 Kidars, and Michael Jankits, 17445 Louise.

Robert G. Landers, 1872 Autumn Lane, Cranbrook Village, is presently circulating petitions. Lane duck State Rep. S. James Clarkson indicated that he may join in the race for mayor.

Southfield Clerk Patrick Flannery stated Tuesday that he understands all incumbents will seek re-election.

Still early in the petitioning phase, many incumbents in the municipalities have not yet expressed their plans. Other aspirants are expected to come to the fore in January.

PLEASE HELP!

Went broke by my stupidity, now my wife, 3 children are to pay. Must raise $12,000 by Dec. 16 to redeem home after foreclosure. Wife has steady $60 office job. January will bring me $125 job in sales. Cannot obtain mortgage because of foreclosure but will be able to handle land contract payments. You can't lose. House is worth approx. $16,000. If it all we have left. Please, someone. Box 592, Eccentric.

Wood Creek Celebrates

WOOD CREEK FARMS — In between cha-chas at Saturday night's annual Wood Creek Christmas party at Birmingham country club, Wood Creek Civic association officers and their wives sit one out. Obviously pleased with the turnout of nearly a they have been "house sitting" for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jaynes of Hickory Lane, while the Jaynes were in Florida for a month, returning last weekend.

Oh, to be a mouse-in-a-corner at the Christmas party for ballet pupils of Miss Dolores Ruhl on Dec. 22. A prize is being offered for the student who presents the best three minutes of original choreography. This prophetic occasion will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert McGowan on Helmsdale.

WOOD CREEK FARMS — Mrs. Vernon Fisher of Wellington road will entertain a work meeting of the Dry-Meats circle Dec. 13 to complete the packing and wrapping of Christmas gifts for the Pontiac State hospital.

FRANKLIN — Parking is bound to be a real problem this Saturday at the Woodcreek-Willowgreen corner. While the Edward Greens host the Saturday nighters for a traditional Christmas party (being especially benevolent this year by bringing gifts for the Oakland county Children's Home) — their across-the-street neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hampson will be having an all-Franklin open house to usher in the holidays.

Busy schedule should make allowances for Franklin school plans for Dec. 20 and 21. An afternoon affair has been arranged for parents of students in Kindergarten through the third grade on Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

An evening program will be presented by the fourth through sixth graders on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

More specific notices will be brought home in hot little hands.

The next night, Dec. 22 will be the cub scout Christmas party, also at the school. Pack 8-11 boys will be contributing money they've earned toward the purchase of needed orthopedic devices at the Farmington Children's Home.

Holiday harmony will be featured as a special attraction for this pack meeting at Mel Stockley.

Franklin Makes Plans For Holiday Season

FRANKLIN — All the festive trappings for a joyous Noel have blossomed this week, twinkling in the holiday season.

After Dec. 9 when the Franklin branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden association will hold a Christmas workshop for its members, handmade Della Robbia wreaths will enhance the scene.

Mrs. J. C. Calhoun will offer instruction and demonstrate her wreath making technique to WNFCA members from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. next Monday at the Franklin Community church.

A Christmas tea is planned for Dec. 12 at the home of Mrs. Robert Weaver in Wood Creek Farms. Members will decorate miniature Christmas trees, employing varying motifs for an extensive display set the tea.

The afternoon's program includes Christmas music under the direction of Mrs. Donald Rogers. Officers of the group will assist Mrs. J. P. O'Brien, chairman for the day.

For Franklin Village Players, Christmas came early — like last weekend, when they revelled in two packed houses for their three-night performance of "The Gaze-
