B'ham Rotarians Hear 'Industrial Ambassador'

One of Michigan's "industrial ambassadors" — Edwin O. George of Birmingham — told his townsmen Monday noon of the assets and liabilities of living and doing business in Michigan.

George is vice president in charge of sales for the Detroit Edison Co. and he outlined "Michigan's economic balance sheet" to the Birmingham Rotary club.

People's Column Trade Freely Writer Advises

To the Editor: Taxpayers — none to your senses. A and H bombs, biological and nerve gases, and other super-weapons already in existence, delivered by accurate earth-orbiting rockets, leave little choice but to establish peace on earth.

ANTAGONISTIC political climate, a confused fiscal situation, expanding population, a bove-average income, a strong and expanding auto industry, plentiful natural resources, excellent water transportation, a great tourist industry, wonderful recreational opportunities, leading educational and health standards, a good skilled labor supply, forward-looking public utilities and active citizens groups.

These problems can be solved if we lay aside our partisan views, make it easier for legislative changes, and make it easier for union, management, and the public. "George emphasized.
