

Louise Kelley Decides Boulevard Plans Okay

LATHRUP—A lady can change her mind. Louise Lathrup Kelley proved this last week when, to the surprise of her neighbors, she approved the city council's plan to make Evergreen road a boulevard.

Late in December when the Southfield proposal was read at a Lathrup council meeting, both Mr. and Mrs. Kelley objected to the boulevard street calling it doubly dangerous and favoring a 40-foot paved strip.

Monday evening Kelley told council members that she had discussed the boulevard street plan with Southfield's City Administrator Robert McNutt and approved a plan to bring the Evans ditch to the center of Evergreen road at Saratoga. The drain would then travel down the island between two strips of pavement until it crossed under the east lane to the place where the stream flows in front of the Birney school.

COUNCILMAN Frederick O. Johnson objected strongly to any placement of an open drain down the center of Evergreen. "You objected to a boulevard street," he told Mrs. Kelley, "because it would be dangerous. How can you now approve an open ditch in the center of two strips of pavement?" Johnson pointed out that in flood conditions the twisting turning street would wash out two sections of road.

According to the plan for a 120-foot right of way over a 100-foot right of way to save front footages on the lots owned by the Kelleys on Evergreen which are only 100 feet deep. She told council members that she will agree to widen

'Pin' 200 Residents Of Hickory Heights

NORTH ADAMS—Hickory leaf name tags were pinned on residents of Hickory Heights as they entered the decorated Hillside room of Devon Gables for a gala dinner dance Saturday evening. This was the subdivision's first dinner dance which drew a record crowd of more than 200 persons.

The Charles Savage Trio put the dancing couples through the paces as they swung into the Cha Cha, Cha, the Samba, Tango and other dances. Door prizes were also presented, completing a most memorable evening.

Planning the event was chairman Harold Cooper of Meadowdale, and committee members, Mrs. Ira Gooling of W. Greiner Hill drive, Robert Sinclair of Rock Spring road, Fred Willard of Hickory Heights.

Mrs. Fred Blackwood of Tutbury lane was the honored guest at a "farewell luncheon" hosted by Mrs. Walter Morris of Anslow lane an afternoon last week. Twelve Charwood residents attended the party.

The Blackwoods will be moving into their new home on Hanley in Birmingham this spring, leaving the Anslow lane home ready for the return of the Gilchrist family from Switzerland.

Mrs. R. E. Kiercher of Burnley drive will be hosting a luncheon and social meeting for members of St. Peter's Guild of St. James Episcopal church on Thursday afternoon. Co-hosting will be Mrs. Erwin Spetman of Birmingham.

The eye appealing decorations at the Royal Oak Women's Club reception at Kimball High School honoring Mrs. Richard Nixon last week were the work of an artistic committee.

Mrs. Earl Rohracher of Hlyane drive, co-chairman of the decoration committee, represented Birmingham and Troy. Mrs. Robert Borden of Burnley drive, was a committee member and represented Bloomfield township, at the party.

The Thomas A. Bramsons and daughter, Beth, of Oakhill drive in Birmingham, spent a month under the Florida sun. They returned with a collection of illustrations used by the students.

Local Soprano Appears With Windsor Symphony

LATHRUP—Coloratura soprano Nancy Hanill brings new glory to her home town with the rave notices she received following her appearance with the Windsor symphony orchestra on Feb. 14.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hamill, 18724 Dolores, Nancy's recital was called her voice lyric in substance, pure and more than adequate.

Among her selections were "Caro Nome" aria from Verdi's "Rigoletto"; Paganini's "Le Moulin" and Lisa Lehman's "I Sent My Soul Into the Invisible" from "In A Favorite Garden."

Favorite indoor sport of some of the residents — waiting for election results after the polls close.

Waiting in Lathrup school hall last Tuesday evening to hear storm water bond issue vote results were Mayor Richard N. Cogger, Mayor Pro Tem Frederick O. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Finnell, Mrs. Scott Kidd, City Administrator Gerald Stone, City Attorney Es-

Recreation Program Increased in Lathrup

LATHRUP — Lathrup residents are now enjoying increased recreation activities since the passing of a recreation ordinance in August, 1959, and the appointment by Mayor Richard Cogger of a recreation commission.

The commission, formed to coordinate efforts of all organizations in Lathrup, has as its chairman, Mrs. Wm. F. Provencher. She is also co-chairman of the Southfield PTA area council for recreation.

Acting secretary is Mrs. Elmer Craig, who is active in the Lathrup women's club, the Lathrup Players and the girl scouts.

Other commissioners are Arley Van Meer, president of the Lathrup Police Youth Recreation; Kay Heim, active in the Lathrup village association; Tom Munson, active in the Lathrup Lions Club, Lathrup Little League, Lathrup PTA and Lathrup Police Youth Recreation.

THE COMMISSION DUTIES are to coordinate all public recreational activities, organize an adequate recreational program, spend budgeted recreational funds of the city to the best advantage, encourage participation in these activities for youth and adults, and cooperate with other communities to foster recreational opportunities.

Donations of time and funds to ward recreation by Lathrup organizations are coordinated by the newly-formed commission, in particular that a complete recreation program can be formulated.

The participating Lathrup organizations are Lathrup Police Youth Recreation, Inc., Lathrup Village woman's club, the Lions club, Lathrup Village association and Lathrup Town Hall.

THE PILOT Saturday program started last year when Mrs. Provencher was recreation chairman of the Southfield area PTA council. At that time a Southfield-Lathrup survey was made by Mrs. Provencher and her PTA committee. It showed the need and interest in additional recreation.

The results of this survey were given to the board of education, superintendent of schools, and cities of Southfield and Lathrup.

MANY OF the new activities are at the local schools, made available by the Southfield board of education.

The pilot Saturday program was started last year at the high school gym and included boys basketball and girls games. This year hand craft, dramas, baton twirling and tumbling have been added.

Tree Program Report Due In Lathrup

LATHRUP—Alvin B. Plumtree, 18530 Glenwood, chairman of Lathrup's forestry advisory committee, told council members last week that the committee's annual tree program report is about ready to go out.

Plumtree said the committee will ask $1.50 per tree for spraying again this year. Over a period of four years, damage in Lathrup from the Dutch Elm disease has subsided from 145 trees lost to 16 last year.

WITH $1,000 budgeted by the city and contributions from residents and using DFW equipment, trees have been sprayed with a solution that checks the elm disease before trees leaf out in the spring.

According to Plumtree, a scale infestation has taken over on many of the ornamental trees in the city and there may be need for a second spray application when the scale insects are at an active cycle. The committee, he said, is awaiting reports and identification of the insects before suggesting proper sprays.

Social Studies Teacher Resigns

SOUTHFIELD — Southfield school board members Monday evening accepted the resignation of Earl Martin, social studies instructor at Long Lake school. Martin resigned to enter industry.

The board also gave Supt. Glenn Smith permission to hire another vocal teacher to fill out the balance of the semester.

S'field PTA Council Meeting Scheduled

"Education for Living in a World of Tensions," will be the subject of Dr. Irving Sigel when he addresses the Southfield area PTA council meeting March 1 at Southfield high school, Lahser at 10 Mile road.

Dr. Sigel is chairman of research at Palmer school and has been a member of the teaching staff since 1952. Prior to that, he taught psychology courses at University of Indiana Center, Smith college and Michigan State college.
