

BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

If Birmingham wanted to pick its next exchange city, Sen. Denyes surveyed commission opinion. Commissioner Carl F. Ingraham, who went to Petoskey while mayor in 1958, thinks cities "ought to have an interest in going anywhere the pairings send you." Last May Denyes went to Saugatuck. On April 11—if the customary rotation procedure is followed—Birmingham's new mayor will take part on his exchange visit next May.

Birmingham apparently finds it more interesting to take its chances in the Michigan Week mayor's day exchange pairings. This week Mayor Harry M. Denyes, Jr., was asked by the official exchange committee

New Center of Learning

The library at the new Wylie E. Groves high school, Evergreen and 1 1/2 Mile road, will go into service next month. The circular room with the thin cement shell roof acts as the hub, aesthetically and practically, of the various sections of the school. Twenty-five tons of cement went into the unusual umbrella-shaped roof over the library.

'We'll Find That Rattle Yet'

Architect Lee Schowalter (left) of 1562 Fairway, Birmingham, and Ken Lawrence, a Harold Turner Ford mechanic, work at restoring a 1931 Ford Deluxe roadster, complete with rumble seat. Both are members of the Modeling club. Schowalter has spent four years collecting parts from Ford dealers and junk yards all over the country and finally had enough to start piecing together his authentic '31 roadster.
