

SEAHOLM HIGH MAPLE MATTERS

By BIL MITCHELL

Start of 1960's First School Day Was an 'Alarming' Experience for Him

Bright and early last Monday morning, say around 6:30, most of the students of our fair school got the shock of their lives.

You see, for the past week most of us had been sleeping in late in the morning, enjoying the vacation. This was because most of us were up rather late most of the nights. (You have no idea the variety of late movies they have on TV.)

Early in the morning it looked as if everyone at school was walking in his sleep. (Some of them probably were.) But, by fifth hour most of the student body had awakened to the fact that they were in school once again.

Proscenium club members are production of "West Side Story" in for a busy month of January at the Riviera theater.

First of all, they are planning to go into production in the near future on the annual winter play.

The club is planning to present Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," during the early part of February. Tryouts for the play have been going on all week, under the supervision of Mr. Beggs, Proscenium's advisor.

This play is a new selection over the original selection, "The Bad Seed," which was thought inappropriate by many of the club members.

It is now the time of year, at Seaholm, when it becomes the task of the student body to elect new, or re-elect old student congress leaders.

This year, however, they are having some trouble getting someone to run for the office of secretary. It seems as though that job isn't the one most students prefer.

However, the rest of the offices have plenty of competition. Our present president, Bob Brookman, is running for reelection. This is something that hasn't been accomplished since Mark Joslyn was president twice. Running against Bob are Jane McKinley and Bob Tiegalar.

The debate teams are looking forward to the last meet of the season. The meet will be held on Jan. 14, at Troy high school.

At this time we will take on opponents from both Southfield and Country Day high schools.

Southfield High A Beehive? Returned In Swarms

Swarms of old grads home for Christmas filled the halls of Southfield the three days before Christmas vacation. Mostly they were members of the June 1959 graduating class but instructors were pleased to receive visits from earlier classes reporting on their college progress.

A special aura surrounds Southfield's student council for their Christmas good deeds. More than twenty baskets of food were delivered to families in Southfield by council members each containing a large plump turkey. Students donated canned goods and clubs donated cash for turkeys. Among the boys who donated their time Christmas Eve to deliver the baskets were Terry Clark, Leonard Spicer, John Gillespie and Doug Neus.

Plans were announced recently at Southfield high school for a special musical production of "Oklahoma" to be presented April 21-22-23. Casting and tryouts have already begun.

Three new instructors will start their teaching duties at Southfield high school with the new semester in February.

David Moscow, a graduate of the University of Michigan, will take over regular English classes. Moscow, who attended Central high school in Detroit, has been working at the high school as a substitute teacher while working for his master's degree.

In the commercial department, Mrs. Marie Kjolhede, of Birmingham, will teach bookkeeping and typing. A graduate of Illinois State Normal university and Wayne State university, Mrs. Kjolhede is a widow with four children. She attended Mackenzie high school in Detroit.

Shorthand and typing will be taught by Harold Fogata, a graduate of Western Michigan university. A native of Jonesville, Michigan, Fogata is married. He attended high school in Jonesville and Cooley high school in Detroit.

'It's No Secret,' Say Southfield Students

According to Southfield high school Principal Robert E. Hall, secret societies, banned by Michigan state law in public high schools, constitute no great problem in Southfield schools.

"Once in a while," said Hall, "we run into five or six youngsters who have formed a secret group. After talks with the students and their parents, these groups disband. The law prohibits clubs and the formation of groups without adult supervision."

Dateline Derby 1960's Off To a Flying Start Here

By BRENDA DRUMM

Derby has begun the New Year with a rush of sports, field trips, class parties, and more sports!

According to Mr. Giltner, swimming coach, Derby's swim teams are excellent this year. The seventh and eighth grade teams are the best Derby has had in four years.

The ninth-grade team lost its first meet to Royal Oak Dondoro.

"The team lost mainly because we had no divers, and we had to lose eight points," explained Coach Giltner.

We lost by six points.

The ninth grade's next meet will be tomorrow night with Royal Oak Kimball at Derby.

The three outstanding swimmers on Derby's ninth-grade team are Tom Kennedy, Ron Lohero and Jim Falconer. Tom Kennedy is the ninth-grade captain.

The eighth-grade captain is Bill Patten, and the seventh-grade captain is Dave Nelson, both of whom are excellent swimmers.

The combined seventh and eighth grade team on the meet last Thursday 55-25 over Fitzgerald.

In basketball, both eighth and ninth-grade teams won a game against Barum Dec. 22. The boys were quoted to have played pretty good ball. The next three Fridays the ninth-grade team will play against Barum.

Mr. Fayler, eighth grade block teacher turned coach, considers his boys "pretty good." They have won one and lost one against Barum.

The eighth grade team has two games with Rochester and one with Lamphere left in the season.

All in all the sports eye view appears exceptionally bright this year.

The seventh-graders had a dance Wednesday in the cafeteria, games dancing and refreshments were in the offering.

Mrs. Fayler's homeroom 223 has planned a party for tomorrow night at the Community house, with refreshments and dancing. The party will be followed by an hour of skating. This is the second of such wonderful parties the ninth-grade homeroom has had. In the fall a Greyhound bus was chartered and the group saw Cinema.

The faculty also had a skating party last Sunday at Eton park skating rink.

So you can plainly see the rush of the New Year has really hit Derby junior high school.

Retakes of pictures for the yearbook will be taken next Wednesday, Jan. 20.

Between Semesters — A Theater Party

The second annual theater party sponsored by the Holy Name PTA will take place on Jan. 29, a semester holiday.

The party will be held at the Holy Name or St. Regis school. Tickets are 50c each and can be purchased at either school.
