CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY

Listen! They're talking about you

"...but what are his personal abilities?"

That's management talking. They want a good man for an executive level job. And they pretty much agree that you are a well-informed salesman, a fine engineer, or an efficient member of the office team. But, that's not enough! Management wants to know about your personal abilities. Can you take command of a group of people? Can you develop the enthusiasm as to get them to act as a winning team? Can you speak effectively, conduct a conference successfully? Have you the self-confidence to win the support of employees or customers? Each year more than 70,000 success-minded men and women turn to the Dale Carnegie Course to develop the personal abilities so sought after by management. In just one evening, you can evaluate Dale Carnegie training for yourself. At a free demonstration meeting, you will discover how this course can help you develop fresh enthusiasm, new confidence; better understanding of others; greater ability to think and speak on your feet. Whether you're a salesman or an engineer or a business executive... a housewife, career woman, or a professional man—you'll find Dale Carnegie training can bring a truly rewarding experience into your life!
