

Donald Forrests Greet Relatives from Florida

LATHRUP—"Re-union" is the good word at the Donald Forrest residence these days. Mrs. Forrest's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Beard, Sr., arrived by jet from Pompano Beach, Fla., and were delighted with the family barbecue Sunday and especially happy to see the grandchildren present.

Come mid-July, Forrest's parents, the Harry Forrests, will arrive from their home in Fort Lauderdale. The senior Forrests live only 16 miles from the Beards. In line with the travel-minded clan, Donald Forrest, Jr., left for Camp Nissokone, near Osceola last Thursday. Keeping him company during his month's stay will be Brad Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jackson of Lathrup boulevard.

Also hosting out-of-town guests were the Bart Poes who bid goodbye on June 25 to Mrs. W. T. Roberts and her four daughters, of Nashville, Tenn., and on June 28 to Mrs. John Baier. Family sight-seeing and get-togethers filled a busy schedule. The Poes hail from Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mikulas, residents of Lathrup for six years, entertained former neighbors, the David Andersons, Joseph Swaths and James Moores at a barbecue on the Fourth. The Mikulas reside in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Garrison and their three children, Linda Kay, Rex, and Bobby spent four days at Boyce mountain with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boyce and the Booza children, Candy and Craig.

Eastward-bound to pick up son Jimmy, Mrs. James Lanham visited her mother-in-law, Mrs. Grace Lanham at Parkersburg, W. Va. Returning Sunday from his glorious vacation with grandmother, Jimmy is all set for a month at camp, beginning July 10.

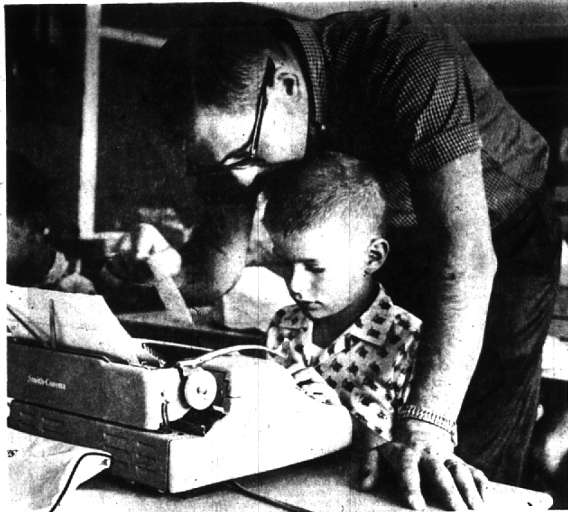

Mrs. V. E. Blue entertained her duplicate bridge club June 23 for dessert and cards. Next meeting of the group is at the home of Mrs. L. Bessel of Bloomfield avenue. The 12 members are all Lathrup residents and their club has been faithfully meeting for several years.

The Frank Pepps are looking forward to the visit of Mrs. Pepp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wilene of St. Petersburg, Fla., especially as they will arrive with young Barbara Pepp, Barbara, 10, left on her first solo trip June 4 to visit her grandparents. They will arrive July 9.

Greenfield Village and local spots received attention from Mrs. William Loewe, visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. Farrell Binder of Autumn Lane. She returned to her St. Louis home Monday.

Mrs. Lynch, incidentally says their new pool is a busy place. She entertained 15 of her sorority sisters recently for an afternoon of swimming—says they adopted her since she is the only one who did not attend the University of Michigan. She is a graduate of an Eastern college.

A New Daughter
WESTCHESTER—A daughter, Elizabeth Ann, arrived June 25 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Tobias, Jr. of Westbourne, Westchester Village. Mrs. Tobias is the former Lorraine Mannisto.

They Like That Type

LATHRUP—Everybody wants to type, and the sooner the better, judging from the response to Southfield schools' new summer typing classes. Among the youngest children enrolled in the summer sessions is third grader Donald Munro, getting assistance here from his teacher, Harold Pogats. A total of 125 enrolled in the classes, offered for the first time this year after parents demanded them. The school system purchased 28 electric typewriters for use in the five classes organized at Lathrup school. Miss Mary Lou Lake heads the school system's summer school program for elementary level children.

surprised on her birthday June 18 by nine neighbors who arrived beaute style.

Sort of a "skier's soiree" is the way Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Howe describe their party honoring houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Wilberg and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Olson of Chicago. The couples met on the ski slopes of Boyce Mountain. The Hows's guests, who arrived June 21 for a four-day visit, were also feted at a picnic and an evening at the Sheraton-Cadillac during their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lynch hosted the Chicago visitors with a poolside party on the 26th.

Cranbrook Thespians Present Own Drama

CRANBROOK VILLAGE—Wide-awake small fry on Chelmsford road cast play aside and put in their time rehearsing a presentation of "Sleeping Beauty" recently.

The stage was the garage at the home of Mrs. Ben Stawinski with 16 boys and girls from three to ten taking part.

Mrs. Stawinski and Mrs. John Baker, who aided with costume and encouragement, tell us one of the youngsters wrote the script, two narrated and the audience was refreshed with summer beverages and cookies. Funds from this and other projects will go to a cook-out for the young thespians.

Wee Jill Wixom, daughter of the R. W. Wixoms, celebrated a fifth birthday the day before her June 19 party. Big sister Paula, incidentally, took her first solo trip, leaving by train June 27 for Gaylord to visit her grandparents, Mr.

The vacation spot chosen by the Arley Van Meers sounds like heaven: Canada Camp, north of North Bay, Ont. The island retreat has lured them for four summers. According to Mrs. Van Meer, it is "out of this world" with super cuisine and superlative scenery. They tore themselves away after 10 days, to return home June 28.

Life saving classes under the tutelage of Mrs. George Russell began last Thursday at the pool at the home of Mrs. Linn Hobbs. The group is composed of 11 swimmers, mothers and girls, who hope to earn their senior and junior life-saving classifications, for girl scout and brownie work. Mrs. Russell has a daughter in senior scouts and one going into girl scouts from the brownies.

Seven senior girl scouts from Troop 166, accompanied by leader Mrs. W. Commons and Mrs. Charles Gorman, returned June 27 from a seven-day camping trip. They based camp at Higgins Lake state park and included a two-day canoe trip up the Au Sable river in their itinerary. Everything was fine but the weather, we hear.
