Birmingham - Bloomfield Hills Society Notes

from Carol Waltz

News for this column may be phoned to Mrs. Waltz at MI-6-1914.

Summer came breezing in with June last week—beckoning with a beguiling show of blue sky and hot sun. But there were a few busy organizations still winding up the year's activities before retiring for a little lazy livin'.

One of them was the Village Woman's club, which set sails at its annual meeting and election of officers. Climaxing a busy year of interesting classes, thought-provoking programs and community service, the meeting was held at Orchard Lake country club, beginning with 11 o'clock brunch and ending with an afternoon of bridge.

NEW OFFICERS elected were: Mrs. Harvey Kresge, president; Mrs. Jackson P. Cummings, second vice-president; Mrs. W. Ogden Vogt, recording secretary; Mrs. Edward Moseman, chairman of finance committee; and Mrs. Dean Coffin, chairman of ways and means committee.

Officers who still have another year to serve are: Mrs. E. A. Hartman, Jr., president; Mrs. Willis P. Wagner, third vice-president; Mrs. E. Finlay, fourth vice-president; Mrs. George R. Squibb, contributions; Mrs. Duncan Hammett, social service; Mrs. E. Hartman, Jr., publicity; and Mrs. A. A. McDonald, Jr., senior advisor to Young Woman's auxiliary.

MRS. BROOKS' MARSHALL, retiring president of Village Woman's club, is last of the original board which began serving four years ago when the club was organized.

Junior League's Whirl of Parties

Also concluding the year's activities, with a final burst of parties, was the Birmingham Junior League.

Last Wednesday, June 1, Mrs. John K. Bagby, retiring president of the league, had her home on Oxford road.

Yesterday the new members (who have been busy as provisionals this past year) and the new provisionals were honored at a luncheon at the Birmingham country club. Mrs. E. S. Humel of Abbey was chairman.

And sandwiched between these two events was the league's fun gala of the year—a tent dance at Bloomfield Open Hunt. Called the Greenhorn Spring Swing, it was as gay, casual and country as picket fences, checked table cloths and carnation trees could make it.

Frank Paul furnished the music. Having a big hand in its success were Mrs. E. Ross Hanson, North Glenhurst, planning chairman, and her committee: Mrs. Thomas (Clark) Mrs. Frederick Storey, Mrs. Myers Cather, Mrs. Kingley Brown, Jr., Mrs. William Beel and Mrs. Francis Loud.

Miss Phoebe Otter of North Woodward entertained the privi-egial members at cocktails before the buffet supper at the club.

Walter Anderson Honored Saturday

Oakland Hills' Country club held a big surprise Saturday night for Mr. Walter Anderson of Chesterfield. It was his 70th birthday, and when he walked into the club, there were a party of 23 to help him celebrate.

The party was given by Mr. Albert Nancarrow of Bennington and E. A. Dunlap of Detroit. The guests have known each other for many years.

Laughter Echoes At Greek Theatre

The Greek theatre at Cranbrook echoed with laughter, and at one point with rain and thunder, last weekend at the opening of the George Kaufman-Marc Connelly comedy, "Merton of the Movies," staged by Jerry McKeen.

Parties before the performance included a buffet dinner Friday night at the Jack U. Klars of Chesterfield road. The Benjamin Brewsters of Brookdale also entertained on opening night.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. William B. Saunders, Pierce street, entertained at dinner.

Tonight a special benefit performance of the play will be given for the Cranbrook Science Museum.

Parties Slated For Miss Wilson

More parties are coming up for Mary Louise Wilson before her June 18 wedding. She is the daughter of the William S. Wilsons of Latham road, and her fiancé is Walter Hamilton Taylor of Cincinnati.

Calumnating two busy weeks included a buffet dinner Friday night at the spinster dinner will be given Thursday, June 16, by Marjorie VanDusen, a bridesmaid in the wedding, at the home of her parents, the David L. VanDusens of Washington road.

Whirl of Events For Bride-Elect

Just a little over two weeks ago Michele Tait flew in from California for her June 19 wedding to Brooks Marshall, Jr., and has hardly had time since to get her feet

She Looks to Future—A Little Too Hard

By RUTH VOGT
Special Writer

Discussing those fascinating things labeled "horoscopes" under the dilemma one put a person smack into not six months ago. It was ghastly.

"What a disaster, and on a Monday morning when the whole house was in shambles from a full month of rainy blizzards, what should the seer say but:

"BE PREPARED for unexpected important guests." As if this wasn't enough to cause complete defeat right there, it added, "and go out of your way to be nice to everyone you meet today." Combining the two demands? Jitters!

Admitting that perhaps this was an easy method in which to get everything in perfect order (how do we know our husbands don't mind them up?) each room was viewed with a tired eye.

"The kitchen will come first," she decided. And since this chore is the one hated the most, great energy was expended on everything.

HOWEVER, before the dishes were put away on clean paper shelves who should knock on my door but the milkman wondering about the order.

"Be nice to everyone," my horoscope had insisted. So? Not if it was a, everything explained which he didn't understand but he was asked how his plants and flowers were coming.

A good 15 minutes flew. But no one could say I wasn't being nice.

TACKLING the bathroom, I thought kept running through the mind just who the "important visitors" might be who were to descend on an cozy gloomy Monday.

If they were mere kin, the chore on the factures didn't have to shine too much.

But if they be a committee-woman, perhaps? Horrors. All the committee people who had crossed my path happened to be immaculate housekeepers.

One couldn't take a chance. The back on the ground—that with all the pre-wedding parties.

Michele is the daughter of the James McLeases, formerly of Bloomfield Hills, now of Malibu, California. Her fiancé, who is standing at the graduate school of the University of Michigan, is the son of the Brooks Marshalls, Georgetown road.

On May 24 Mrs. Joseph Wright entertained for Michele at a luncheon at her home on Pilgrim road.

Last Saturday was a busy day, with a luncheon that noon given by Mrs. Carl Fischer of Lyonhurst, and a cocktail and supper party given by Mrs. Rawson Valle, of Pilgrim, and Mrs. William Manning of Mrs. Manning's home on Fairway drive.

Mrs. David Schulte had a swimming party and luncheon for Michele last Tuesday at her home on Henery Circle. And yesterday Mrs. Ogden Vogt and her daughter, Jo Harr Frederickson, entertained at a tea at their home on Pilgrim.

Tomorrow is the wedding day, and tonight the rehearsal dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will climax the round of social activity.

Summer Day Camp To Open June 27

George A. Roeper, director of the Roeper summer day camp, has announced that the camp season will begin June 27. Aided by the assistant director, Bill Deych, Mr. Roeper completed his staff for the summer activities. All head counselors are degree-holding teachers, and are assisted by carefully chosen people.

The Redbirds, six year old girls, will be under the care of Linda Churchill, aided by Sherry Pink and Carolyn Lee LeVan. The Bluebirds, six year old boys, will be under Norma Carter, with Margaret Bowen helping.

THE FALCONS, seven year old girls, will be guided by Marilyn Fleet and Marion Littman. Tom Patty will oversee the activities.

In addition to the camp, a nursery school and kindergarten are operated during the summer. Mrs. Annemarie Roeper is the overall supervisor of both, but Mrs. Dorothy Webster has direct charge of the kindergarten. Mrs. Carly Levin, an old standby at the camp, will oversee the nursery. Both will be well assisted.

THE CAMP is located on Wood-

Summer Roadoil Program Adopted

Special roadoil assessments totaling nearly $26,000 were approved Monday by the Birmingham city commission.

Nearly 14 miles of city streets this summer will receive either light oiling, a seal coat, or an oil mat and seal.

Last-minute deletions were made for the half block of Puritan south of Redding, the two blocks of Henley from Oxford east to Abbey, and Chester from Lincoln to Hanna. All other streets will be worked as originally proposed several weeks ago.

B'ham Industries Seek Paved Alley

A T-shaped alley has been requested to serve industrial properties at the northeast corner of Eton and Cole. Birmingham city commissioners referred George T. Dwyer's petition to City Manager I. R. Gare for study.
