

Perhaps it may help you to understand why our world today is so confused . . . as both domestic and international affairs appear so filled with problems, even real danger. Mankind still is, always will be, in the process of endeavoring to "civilize" itself . . . to strip its thought-processes of its fears and undisciplined primitive urges . . . and thus emerge into a life protected by spiritual forces.

SOCIETY Couple Repeat Vows In Evening Ceremony

Jacqueline Florence Bergey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur I. Bergey of Suffield, Birmingham, became the bride of LeRoy Ernest Ward at an evening, double ring ceremony Saturday.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Beulah Ward of Painted Post, N. Y., and the late L. C. Ward. The Rev. Thomas W. Kirkman officiated.

THE BRIDE, wearing a floor length princess style silk organza gown over taffeta, was given in marriage by her father. Pearl-centered lace medallions circled the boat neckline and were scattered over the skirt.

Her five-petaled lace cap was trimmed with pearls and sequins and an elbow length illusion veil was attached to it. She carried a cascade bouquet of carnations and stephanotis.

THE MATRON of honor, Mrs. Robert A. Bergey of Alexandria, Va., and bridesmaid, Margaret E. Cartwright of Birmingham, wore a pale blue embroidered silk organza over taffeta.

Their dresses were street length with boat necks and cap sleeves and their net cartwheel hats were of a matching color. They carried cascade bouquets of American beauty roses.

Walter Ward, brother of the groom, of Addison, N. Y., was the best man. Another brother, Francis Ward, also of Addison; Arthur I. Bergey, brother of the bride, of Los Angeles; Robert Bergey, cousin of the bride of Alexandria; and Ray Crawford of Royal Oak seated the guests.

THE BRIDE'S mother chose beige lace with dubonnet accessories and the groom's mother was gowned in brown lace. Both wore cymbidium orchids.

Following a reception in the church parlors of the First Presbyterian church, where the ceremony was performed, the couple left for a two week trip to the
