Girl Scouts' Open House At B'ham Community House

The annual open house which the Birmingham district of Girl Scouts is sponsoring holds on "My Troop Day" Saturday will take place in the Birmingham community house from noon until 4 p.m.

Over 100 troops from the Birmingham district, including Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield village, Franklin village, Westwood village, Walnut and Wing lakes, will display what they have accomplished during the past year.

The theme of National Girl Scouting for 1950, "You can count on her to be prepared", will be stressed in the exhibits.

ALL PHASES of scouting will be featured, and the fields of homemaking, citizenship, health, safety, international friendship, arts and crafts and out of doors will be depicted in the displays of handicrafts, scrapbooks, badge work reports, camping, etc.

The senior scouts who attended the senior roundup in Colorado during the summer of 1950, will display the many mementoes they brought back. Of special interest to leaders and girls will be an exhibit on program planning.

ON THE SAME afternoon the annual Needlework Guild Inaugurating will take place in the Ruth Sham room in the community house to collect garments which the scouts have made during the past year.
