Have you taken an Investment Inventory RECENTLY?

Just as you would make a timely household inventory for your insurance—so should you make a periodic inventory of your investments.

Many people feel that since they continue to receive dividend checks from investments the market is just as it was at the time they purchased their securities. Today's fast-moving market makes periodic inventories of your investments important. Since our investment experts follow these many changes, and have the necessary experience behind them to interpret these changes, they are your best source of advice on your investment situation. Stop in today or call us and let one of our staff make an up-to-date inventory of your investments.
