Cranbrook Corridor

By TOM JONES
Since Cranbrook's annual spring recess began yesterday, Mr. Harry Hoey, the school's headmaster vacationing in South America, is no longer the only member of Cranbrook society far from Bloomfield Hills.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Hoey who are currently in Lima, Peru, a number of Cranbrook travelers include Doug Lieberman, a second-former who is vacationing in Jerusalem; Eugene, a junior who has returned to his home near San Juan, Puerto Rico, and Don Cummings, a senior, at home in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

Cranbrook is also well represented in the United States with Rick Strong vacationing near San Francisco, Bob Anderson at home near New Mexico, and that columnist who is enjoying the ski slopes near his home in Denver.

In addition, a large delegation, including Mathematics Department Chairman Mr. Robert Davis, is enjoying the Florida sunshine.

Before vacation began however, Cranbrook was the usual busy place. One week ago yesterday, Mr. Vernon Morgan, chief of the sports department for Reuters International News service Ltd., and father of Tim Morgan, one of Cranbrook's two foreign students this year, spoke in an all school assembly on the importance of international athletic competition.

Morgan stopped at Cranbrook on his way back to England after covering the Winter Olympics games for Reuters.

An ex-Olympian himself, he discussed the importance of such things as the Olympic games and the British Empire games and furthering international brotherhood.

Last Saturday, Cranbrook students had the pleasure of taking the College Entrance Board examinations all day and then attending the annual "C" club dance that evening at home.

Surprisingly enough, many somewhat durable students were still on their feet at midnight when the dance ended.

Holy Name Cagers are On the Ball On 3 Levels

By JUDY GOODE
We really did it this time! All three of the Holy Name basketball teams are going into the city championship finals.

Sunday, March 6, the girls played their first game in the finals and won, 14-11. Although Holy Name girls have been division champs for three successive years this is the first time they have ever won a game in the finals.

The girls played a twin number one who beat us twice in scrimmages games earlier in the season. Gretchen Koefe was high scorer with 9 points. Maureen Anderson and Vicki Matousek each scored 2 points. Katy Sullivan made the other point.

Last Sunday the girls went on to their second game in the finals with St. Gabriels.

When the junior varsity won its last division game on March 5 they also became division champs.

and eligible for the CYO city championship. The JV's have not yet had a game in the finals but are looking forward to one in the very near future.
