Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills Society Notes from Carol Waltz-

News for this column may be phoned to Mrs. Waltz between 6 and 9:30 P.M. at MI 12144.

If Huck Finn could hitch up his pants and step barefoot from the Birmingham theatre-screen Tuesday night, no doubt his eyes would be, in the words of his immortalizer Mark Twain, "all lit up like glory". For hundreds of people—all contributors to the cause of Camp Oakland—will be looking at and loving him again in his comic-life book of "Huckleberry Finn", which "Newsweek" has described as "probably the greatest American novel".

And we're mighty sure that Huck's young heart once more would "jump up among his lungs" to see all the heap of fuss and hand-dipped going on around him. Mrs. Hazard reports, are "thoroughly Birmingham" in their new home, and are very busy entertaining. (See SOCIETY NOTES, Page 3-D)

Guest lists are still lengthening for parties before and after the theatre. Among those entering will be Mr. and Mrs. Ben D. Mills of Vaughan road. Mrs. Mills is general chairman of the women's committee of Camp Oakland and along with her committee members has worked night and day to make this project a success. So she has planned a party May 12 at the theatre with most outstanding reasons—"so we can all come home and collapse".

Mr. and Mrs. John St. Clair will host a pre-premiere dinner party at their home on Fairfax road, Birmingham, on Monday night. Theatre buffets are Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Nady of Dorchester road, Birmingham; Mrs. D. S. Sims of Henley drive and Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson of Larchdale drive, Birmingham. For the premiere must be held from Mrs. Robert Chambers of Puritan, Mrs. John St. Clair of Fairfax, Mrs. Barbara Schmidt of Wing Lake road and Mrs. William Simpson of Larchdale.

Hi from Huck

Young eyes are sure to shine Monday when Eddie Hodges, star of "Huckleberry Finn", visits the 26 boys and girls living at Camp Oakland. With him will be his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Hodges of Long Island, N. Y., and his teenage sister, Dawn.

Hosting the visitors at Camp Oakland will be Mr. Walter Gehlke, president, and Mrs. Gehlke; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Mill and committee chairman and their husband, Robert Chambers, Parkbury Seminars, John St. Clair and John Sheafold.

... But a Good Try

This is a story of blind intentions that got all tied up in Times Square. The Cool Kings of Larchdale drive were feted for weeks by friends and neighbors before their departure for Buenos Aires for two years. Then they left with daughter Lynn and son Peter for a week in Washington and a week in New York before taking off from Idlewild.

Meanwhile their neighbors, the Paul Richards Larchdale, moved to their new home in Wilmington, Del., with daughter Ann and son Allan.

What an exciting coincidence! Now they could drive easily from Wilmington to Idlewild to see the Kings off. So the whole family started out.

The Richards reached New York. Happily they headed into its hectic confusion. The minutes grew shorter, the car live-ups longer. The clock moved on, the traffic didn't. By the time they had reached Times Square there was no time left.

The ending? They parked the car, piled out and borrowed the nearest telephone booth for bon voyages. "At least," Mrs. Richards philosophized, "the children got to see Times Square."

Visits in Florida

In the midst of May's warm breezes, we were double-crossed with frost. But it didn't interfere with spring gallivanting. Some of our recent travellers came back from winter vacations. Others took off on short trips.

Family Reunited

Mr. and Mrs. Ward C. Tollzien, Jr., former Birmingham residents, will arrive tomorrow, May 6, with son Kirk, to spend a month with their parents. At present they are stationed at an air force base in Sioux City, Ia.

The first two weeks of their stay will be spent with the Ward C. Tollziens, Sr., at their home on Harlan drive, and the last two weeks with Mrs. Tollzien's parents, the O. L. Parkers, of Bonnaville street. Mrs. Tollzien, Jr. is the former Barbara Parker, Birmingham.

In Wash. D.C.

In Washington D. C. for a week with their children Holly and Dirk, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Anderson of Hazelwood street enjoyed seeing family and friends. They were guests of Mrs. Anderson's sister, Miss Joan Rowles.

Stay with Friends

Visiting former Birminghamites was the highlight of the W. Eldon Hazards' stay in Florida. They were at the Beachcomber in Venice for their vacation, but spent four delightful days on the east coast
