

Derby Students Go To Ann Arbor For Conference

By NANCY PIERCE

Our Student council officers recently went to Ann Arbor to attend a conference and learned the meaning of being an officer. All the junior highs in the southern part of Michigan were represented.

OCT. 13, Derby's ninth grade lost to Waterford, 13-6. The eighth grade brought back the old school spirit by winning from Madison

Barnum Junior High

Honor Society Reviews Plans for Open House

By KAREN L. PIEL

Members of Barnum's national junior honor society attended their first meeting Oct. 27. Chosen by teachers last spring, they were Marianne Gail, Pamela Herman, Christine Jensen, secretary of the N.J.H.S.; Holly Knox, treasurer; Ann Norton, vice president; Mary Lee Payton and Karen Piel as well as Kirk Quillian, historian; Don Robinson, Roger Ulrich and Gordon Willet, president.

At the meeting, plans were made for Barnum's open house, Nov. 11 and for a dance in February. Committees were appointed to carry out arrangements for the two functions.

ON OCT. 24, the Michigan conference of junior high school student councils was held at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Barnum's student council officers who attended the conference are: Karen Kirk Quillian, president; Karen Piel, vice president; Heidi Ervin, secretary; Paul Good, safety commissioner and Betsy Griffith, treasurer. William Ladd, advisor, accompanied them.

First, a general meeting was held in the Rackham building lecture hall. Milas March, student council advisor at University high school, Ann Arbor, addressed the group. His speech was entitled "Let's get Serious About Student Councils".

Later the students broke up into small discussion groups for an exchange of ideas about student council aims and methods of operation.

The afternoon session was devoted to the reporting of ideas in Heights, 28-0.

DERBY HAD its first pep assembly Oct. 27, arousing enthusiasm for Thursday night's football games at Seaholm field. Cheerleaders, with the help of Mrs. Major, did a real fine job.

ON OCT. 29, Mrs. Pierce and Miss Williams will take the students in their language classes to see "Ben Hur". Everyone is expecting to have a very pleasant experience, not only at the exciting picture, but during the trip to the theater by chartered bus.

THE NINTH grade mixed choir went to Lansing on Oct. 8 to see the Michigan State-Lowa game. They ate lunch, did some touring, and by 12:30 were at the stadium to see the game.

the different discussion groups.

BARNUM'S ninth grade football team scored a victory against Groves' ninth grade squad on Oct. 30 at Seaholm with a final score of 21 to 7. The eighth grade team lost to Groves 19 to 0.

On Oct. 27, Barnum's eighth grade, all-star team played Derby's all-stars at Seaholm with the ninth grade game following.

A TEA WAS held by the Barnum room mothers on Oct. 25 at 10 a.m. in the library. Mothers discussed plans for Barnum open house.

B-HL THE GIRLS' athletic club, organized recently will meet after school for such activities as field hockey and volley ball. Officers will be elected soon. Miss Santure, the girls' gym teacher, leads the group.

THE OFFICERS and Board of directors of the Barnum band and orchestra parents—better known as B-Bop—met Oct. 24 at the home of Howard Willet, president. Since the Barnum band is to play at the football game between Royal Oak's Donders and Birmingham's Seaton tomorrow, plans were made with refreshments after the game.

B-Bop parents will meet Nov. 21 to discuss plans for the Christmas party for band and orchestra members.

Bloomfield Hills High

Football Squad Roots For School Beauties

By SUE HALLAS

Candidates for Miss America have to start somewhere and if the football team had their say members of the homecoming court would be on their way to Atlantic City now.

Ginny Van Dyk represents the sophomore class in the court and Karen McHalpine, the juniors. The homecoming queen will be selected from the senior nominees. They are Karen Sundberg, Sarah Hoopsgardner, Jayne Ryan, Susie Chatterton and Linda Dewey.

GUESS WHAT? Bloomfield Hills high school made a national magazine—in bits and pieces, at least. On page 16 of the Nov. 8 issue of Look magazine, we're in a Scotch tape ad.

If you look closely there are programs from last year's homecoming and the junior-senior Prom, a Barons button, a picture of the cheerleaders and the bleachers, and a "Unity" campaign card which bears the name of our esteemed student council president, Bob Pike.

TO LIST A few current school events, the sophomores had a dance on Thursday, Oct. 27; the Book club is reading Orwell's "Animal Farm"; and the Latin club will meet at Barbee St. John's home for a pot-luck supper on Nov. 4.

THE BLOOMFIELD Blue Book is on sale in the book store. A school directory eliminates wading through all the "Smiths" and "Browns" in the phone book and will be especially helpful when it comes time to send Christmas cards. There's just a small price for all that convenience.

JILLS FOR the year are Karen Sundberg, Vicki Allmon, Jan Osborn, Marg Noshay, Judy Bing, Cherie Patterson, Maureen Sanders and Karen Martins.

THE JUNIOR class can be justly proud of its American field service candidates. They are Meredith Plaxton, Val Hart, Cary Ciagne and Jack Turnaciff. Congratulations and luck to all four.

WITH "PRITHEE" and "Good, my lord" floating around the halls, it is obvious that the senior play cast has a form of the plague called "Medieval-itis." By the time the play opens on Nov. 17 and 18, it is expected that the epidemic will have spread throughout the whole student body.

Whether or not you are susceptible to this charming and extremely contagious disease, you will find that an evening with "The Connecticut Yankee" will be enjoyably a pot-luck supper on Nov. 4.
