DOWN TO EARTH Local Man Is Artist With Pruning Shears

By ALICE WESSELS BURLINGAME Special Writer for The Birmingham Eclectic

There are artists at the stove, palette and other media of expression but in our community we have a real artist with the pruning shears—he is Leo Hagan, 244 Townsend.

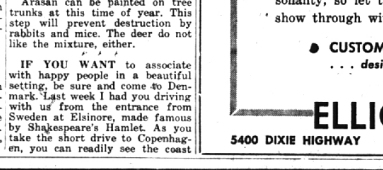

That man is a genius at taking an ordinary tree and ordinary pruning shears and making it a Japanese masterpiece. This technique has been used in the front of his home as well as on trees in the rear garden. The home is close to the Community House and must go to see the ultimate in pruning. By the way you will like to also see his architectural treatment of one of Birmingham's oldest houses.

THIS IS A GOOD time to secure a calla lily bulb to enjoy as a winter accent. They come in yellow, white and pink. Plant the bulb in a pot, allowing just the tip of the calla to be exposed. Water well and place in full light immediately. This is one plant which needs a great deal of water to prosper. After flowering, feed the plant well to encourage good future flower formation and water it as a choice plant for a couple months. Then allow it to dry off for three months by placing the pot on its side.

There are Mrs. Burlingame many new introductions in the calla family. You can have excellent success by starting the plants from seed and don't overlook the Apricot Sunrise Hybrid.

Arasan can be painted on tree trunks at this time of year. This step will prevent destruction by rabbits and mice. The deer do not like the mixture, either.

IF YOU WANT to associate with happy people in a beautiful setting, be sure and come to Denmark. Last week I had you driving with us from the entrance from Sweden at Elstomer, made famous by Shakespeare's Hamlet. As you take the short drive to Copenhagen, you can readily see the coast
