

Highway Fatal Record Grim For October

Climaxed by a ghastly pre-Halloween weekend which claimed 32 traffic deaths, Michigan's provisional October road toll zoomed to 161 to record the severest month for highway fatalities in the last two years, the State Police report.

Adding to the grimness is the probability that delayed deaths will push October's total above the recent monthly highs of 166 in November, 1958, and 169 in September, 1956.

The previous worst October mark was in 1955 when 204 died.

The October death toll of 161 is 36, or 28 per cent, more than 125 in the same month last year.

The provisional 10-month toll of 1,266 is 98, or 8.4 per cent, ahead of 1,168 fatalities in the corresponding 1959 period.

"THE ALARMING October tragedies emphasize the increased traffic hazards during the last months of the year," said Commissioner Joseph A. Childs.

"Reduced visibility and more adverse weather demand greater caution. Laws and law officers do all they can but in the final analysis it's up to each driver and pedestrian to drive and walk with increased care," he said.
