This & That

thus increasing the flow of goods, stimulating employment, etc. Insofar as conforming to maintaining money as a balanced medium of exchange, the Dr. was all wet. However, today, by means of heavy taxation, governmental budget un-balancing (resulting in inflation) the federal government is providing billions for millions of people. The late Doc no doubt, by his crusading, did pave the way for today's governmental "philanthropy"—aided, of course, by politicians with an eye to winning votes.

Shocked by the language used by two workmen repairing telephone wires close to her home, a spinster reported the matter to the company. The foreman, in making his report on the incident, writes: "Me and Bill Smith was on the job. I was up the pole and let some hot lead fall and it went down Bill's neck. He said, 'You really must be more careful Harry, and I said, 'Indeed I must, Bill. I will see that it doesn't happen again.'"

Now or Never
If with pleasure you are viewing any work a man is doing, if you like him tell him now. Don't withhold your approbation. Till the person makes oration. And he lies with lilies o'er his face. If you think some praise is due him, None's the time to slip it to him. He will never know the teardrops you have shed. And no matter how you shout it He will never know about it For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

Worker

one night on Upper Peninsula television—with only a few minutes warning beforehand—she found herself on a set buried in beer bottles from the last commercial. "Get these things out of the way," she cried frantically, "or my name will be mud!" There was a mad scramble and banging of glass, and she was on—sans the beery background. But she was so flustered that she forgot to tell her unseen and bewitched audience who she was until a huge cue card finally got through to her two minutes before her time was up.

ANOTHER ANECDOTE hinged on Mr. Bagwell's loss of Muskogon by one vote in the last election. Beginning a recent speech in that city, he scrutinized the audience with a tongue-in-cheek scowl and said weightily, "I'm looking for that one vote!"

Afterwards a tiny old lady came forward with tears in her eyes. "Mr. Bagwell," she said mournfully, "about that one vote, I did it and I won't do it again!"

After her speech Mrs. Bagwell insisted on staying to shake hands and chat with each of her 40 listeners. When the last guest left, she was still there.

Next Thursday night, the Birmingham Child Study group is giving equal speaking time to Mrs. John B. Swainson, wife of the Democratic candidate for governor.
