

Holiday Shoppers Can Tee Off at Book Fair

The Harlan school annual Book fair began Thursday of this week and will continue through Nov. 2. So here's a chance to do some of your Christmas shopping early.

The Book fare highlight will be on Tuesday evening when Dr. Harry Hahn, director of instructional services for Oakland county, will be the guest speaker at the PTA meeting.

Home again, after living nine months in Europe, are Mr. and Mrs. John Haro of Sheperdshush. Haro was awarded the Wheelwright Fellowship from Harvard in architecture and left last fall with his wife and two small sons, John and Alexander. During his stay he observed the architectural structures throughout the Scandinavian countries.

Much of their time was spent in Zurich, Switzerland, and Copenhagen, Denmark. During their months stay in Finland, they spent a few days in Porii visiting distant relatives of Haro. Another month was spent in England, before their journey homeward.

Last week, the Haros entertained friends Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, whom they had met while in London.

The Joseph Handlines of Robinson Circle drive will be spending the first week of November in New York attending the General Motors motormans. On their return they plan to pick up their children, Terry and Lew, and motor to Chicago via the Mackinac bridge for a few days.

William Lyle Bones, son of the W. L. Bones of North Adams road, will be returning to Birmingham with his wife and children, William, Jr., David and Kimberly, for a two week visit in the near future. The Bones moved to Pittsburgh, Pa. the latter part of September.

Spending the weekend with Mrs. Argyie Campbell of E. Maple road was Mrs. Maurice Sheehan of Grand Rapids.

A dinner party on Saturday evening honored Mrs. Sheehan. Attending were the Carl Jordans and the Ben Goldens.

Weekend houseguests at the Walnut Hill drive home of the William Nienhuis family were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Woodstra and sons Don and Dick of Grand Rapids.

The Douglas Pamplins of N. Reading road entertained houseguests over the weekend. They were relatives Dr. and Mrs. James E. Ring and Peter as well as their weekend guests, George Fox of Rolling Hills, Calif.

On Saturday evening, the Charles Eilers entertained their pot luck supper club in their home on Robinson Circle. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Al Bauman of Pine Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Edward King of Hickory heights and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Haines of Bloomfield Hills.

Bridge Party To Benefit Medical Interns

The Woman's auxiliary to the Michigan Industrial medical association held their monthly meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. Earl F. Lutz.

Each year the group sponsors a telephone bridge, conducted throughout the state of Michigan to raise funds for a merit award at both the University of Michigan and Wayne State university.

IT IS GIVEN to the junior or senior medical students or internes who write the best papers on Industrial Medicine, or problems related to medicine in industry.

Mrs. Martin Bruton, president, and her telephone bridge chairman, Mrs. Winthrop Hall, have sent notices to all the members throughout the state, inviting them to participate in their one and only fund raising project on Nov. 10.

Have You Met . . . Mr. and Mrs. Karl F. Kellerman of 868 N. Adams? They moved from Washington, D. C. in April. He is employed by the Bendix Corp., as assistant to the executive vice president. They have a son, Mr. Kellerman is a graduate of Cornell university and a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity and of Tau Beta Pi and Eta Kappa Nu engineering societies. He is a member of the Cosmo club and Columbia country club in Washington. He is also a member of the engineering society of Detroit and Oakland Hills country club.

Mrs. Kellerman is a member of the Junior league.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Marshall are spending two months in New York. While Mr. M. will be on business, she will have all sorts of time to see old college friends and really do the town. Mr. Marshall's brother-in-law and sister, the James R. Meeks of Coconut Grove, Fla., will be there at the same time and will stay in the apartment of her mother Mrs. Alfred C. Marshall.

Shall We Dance? We never knew children could be so clean! We're referring to the young ladies and gentlemen, fifth graders who attended Barbara Seaver's opening ballroom class last week. Eagerly smoothing down their pinafores and pulling up

Birmingham - Bloomfield Hills Society Notes

By JOYCE KLARR MI 6-1358

We're still hearing of the wonders of Cobo Hall. The latest word comes from Mrs. Judge Bearden about Christ child society's carnival tomorrow night. We all know it would be impossible to spend a day working at the fair and then attend a cocktail party and dinner dance in the same clothes that evening—even a beaded cashmere wouldn't carry us that far!

Last year some of the Christ Child ladies rented a motel near their carnival site for changing purposes. They even had cocktails and dinner there. But this year the fair and evening dinner dance is to be at Cobo hall and on the invitation is stated that for suburban members who can't go home between events to slip into something dazzling, dressing rooms have been provided.

Birmingham Bloomfield members who will be seen carrying their dancing shoes (naturally, during the day they will be wearing their light running sneakers) and party dresses into Cobo hall tomorrow morning include Mrs. Richard T. O'Reilly, Mrs. John Gray, Mrs. Harry Winston Jr., Mrs. Lloyd Dehl, Jr., Mrs. Margaret Maxon, Mrs. Joseph Paulus, Mrs. John Mahoney, Mrs. J. G. Shannon, Mrs. Carl Damburn, Mrs. Jolee Dixon, Mrs. Joseph Jaett, and Mrs. Thomas as Alston.

Visiting in N. Y. The William Burgums were busy last Saturday. After breakfast they journeyed to Ann Arbor for luncheon and the Michigan - Minnesota game. Both being loyal Minnesota alumni, guess which side they cheered? They rushed home from A. A. to prepare for dinner guests, among them Mr. and Mrs. John (Anatomy of a murder) Voelker, who were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ferrell and Mr. and Mrs. John Coolidge.

Las Vegas Bound Right now I must hang a night sturen sign on my little divetti (typewriter) and take off for Las Vegas. If I shouldn't return it's probably because I played those slot machines (do they have penny ones) neither wisely nor well.

Beehives—Bravo! In this time of great debates, this may go down as the least of the lesser, but I find that I must take exception to the stinging remarks of one very lovely Birmingham Eccentric township editor who recently lashed out against extreme hairdo's, elaborate make up and high style clothes. She even trod the sacred ground of hair coloring which is certainly hitting below the belt where we're concerned. I say "Bravo" to anyone with a beehive, black eye shadow or gold lips. If it doesn't look good on us this year—then next year may be ours.

After all, mother nature can't be expected to do it all. She's spreading herself pretty thin as it is right now and I've always felt that the fresh dewy young look is for the fresh dewy young.

So I'll stick with my beehive even if I have to spray it with 6-12 and I'll keep right on using eye make up even if I look like the son of Charlie Chan.

They were wearing shirt waist dresses back when I was seeing Nelson Giddy in "Naughty Marietta" for the eleventh time, and I don't care if I never see another one again!

In New York Show

Chris Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jones of Bloomfield Hills will take time off from her Kingswood studies to join her parents in New York where she will participate in National horse show, held at Madison Square garden.

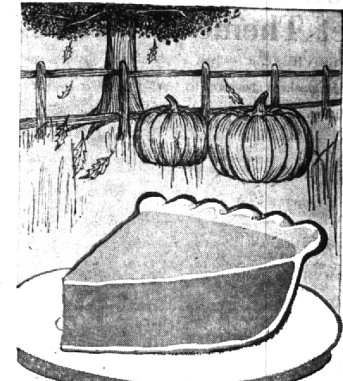

Squirming young men fresh from an afternoon of little league football or just tearing around, and looking as though they would rather be somewhere else (only at first—they perked up when it came time for rock 'n roll) included Fritz Crockett, Andy Bowden, Dick Strickland, Rudy Andrae, Bob Baxter, Ray Brundage, Ronnie Clapham, John Conley, Lee Hart, Jim Guckelberg, Pat Dawson, Jim Coulter, Ralph Margulis, Louie Meier, Bruce Pierce, Chuck Runkle, Don Schuster, Fred Beer, Steve Mathews and Stephen Webb.

Hearts and Clubs A bridge orgy is taking place in our town this week. Members of the Village women's club are playing all week to benefit their building fund. The game is being sponsored by Mrs. Frederick Booth, Mrs. Leslie Green, Mrs. Harvey Kresge, Mrs. John Coe, Mrs. Kenneth McGregor, Mrs. Dale Miller, Mrs. Edward Wellock, and Mrs. Carl Larson. And while we're speaking of the VMC doesn't their series of music appreciation lectures by Karl Haas sound interesting?

Attend Conference

Quota club of Oakland county will have its regular meetings at Carrie Lee's in Birmingham. Four members attended the district conference at Flint recently and along with pleasant memories they brought back the prized membership trophy.
