Workmen Plan 'Bank Job'

Busy workmen break through the Hamilton side of the Detroit Bank and Trust company at 188 Woodward in broad daylight as branch head William Allan supervises the job. The bank's large plate glass windows were removed from the Hamilton side of the building to make room for the installation of a second entrance and vestibule for customers' convenience.

The four teenage executives were part of the 1000 delegates from 39 states and two Canadian Provinces taking part in the week-long conference.
